PREFACE.

Munro printed these Translations in the autumn of 1884. Early in the following spring he left Cambridge for Italy and died at Rome on March 30th.

The Translations were not published; but he sent copies to many of his friends. Some of their acknowledgements amused him: thus William Cory, the author of 'Ionica' and of some Latin verse, which Munro declared 'the best and most Horatian Sapphics and Alcaics... that have been written since Horace ceased to write', remonstrated with him for 'printing that doggerel of Shelley's', the doggerel being the extracts from the Ode to a Skylark; while L. Friedlaender, who was at that time still professor at Koenigsberg, chose out for praise the rendering of 'Bannocks o' bear-meal!' Munro said to me that he would have expected his Alcaics to prove more attractive; but Friedlaender was then working at Martial and probably looked to see how Munro managed one of Martial's favourite metres.

Nearly all the copies were thus given away. It has never been possible to buy the book except at second-hand; and for years past the price asked has been high. It has therefore been decided, with the consent of Munro's representatives, to reprint his book, that those who are interested in Latin Verse and in Munro, may acquire a copy at a reasonable price. In the reprint a few slight changes are introduced from Munro's own copy of the book; and two Translations have been added at the end. The second, a translation of the Dirge in Cymbeline, was found among Munro's MSS. and has already been printed for the use of Trinity College Lecture-Room; the first, from Scott, was also found in his papers and has not, it is believed, been printed before.

Some of the Translations were printed separately before 1884, mainly in Sabrinae Corolla and in Holden's Folia Silvulae; but these were much changed before their second appearance. The longest of them all, the version of Gray's Elegy, was printed at the Pitt Press about 1874. The paper and type were carefully chosen; the first stanza and the Epitaph were printed in red; the whole makes a desirable pamphlet of eighteen pages with a blue cover. This was not published; but a copy got into the hands of a critic who reviewed it in Macmillan's Magazine. He complained of the harshness and obscurity of Munro's verse. He did more: he was kind enough to show how it should be done, by translating some lines into Elegiacs of his own. Munro replied in the same magazine. Never eager for controversy, when once engaged in it he was a strenuous controversialist; and one of his shrewd blows may be quoted. His critic had quoted with approval Gilbert Wakefield's rendering of 'The paths of glory lead but to the grave': In tumuli fauces ducit honoris iter. This Latin, said Munro, is capable of but one meaning: 'the path of a public office leads to the gorge of a hillock' *.

* Macmillan's Magazine for January and February 1875.

Another critic also expressed his opinion of Munro's version of the Elegy. This was T. S. Evans, then Canon of Durham, himself a writer of admirable Latin Verse and a lifelong friend of Munro's, who seldom mentioned to me the name of 'Tom Evans' without adding, 'an Israelite indeed, in whom there is no guile'. Evans, on receiving the version, addressed a Latin epistle to Munro, from which the following lines are taken:

uersiculos laetus legi et bis terque relegi laetior usque tuos. quantum, si uiueret, ipse confessurus erat Graius, tibi me quoque tantum confiteor debere. at per uestigia uatis Paeligni minus isse reor te, maxime Munro, quam signasse nouum sermonem, dum tibi Musam Nasonis numerosque repraesentare uideris.
de sermone tuo morem gere pauca monenti.
si qui forte satus Romana gente fuisset Aeschylus, atque elegos uoluisset adire Latinos, talem crediderim scripturum carmina uatem haud aliena tuis, qui stant quasi marmore uersus et similes solido structis adamante columnis.

The criticism is exquisitely expressed and is also true. Munro's verses were not Ovidian. When he wished, he could imitate Ovid closely enough; but his preference for the poets of the Republic always influenced his verse; and also he probably felt that Ovid's speed and lightness were out of place in rendering so grave and solemn a poem.

These Translations were not the serious business of Munro's life: he turned them over in his head on sleepless nights or in the course of his afternoon walk by Trumpington and Grantchester, which he generally took alone. When he had got them to his mind, he copied them out, often many times over, on sheets of foolscap. He did not himself publish them, and he well knew that they were lusus. But though lusus, such things are not ineptiae, when they are based, as in Munro's case they were, upon a wide and deep knowledge of Latin and upon a real love of literature. Munro was not one of the old-fashioned scholars, who despise all your modern literatures: Homer and Virgil were hardly more to him than Dante and Goethe; Catullus he loved, but he loved Burns as well. Soon after he took his degree he spent some years on the continent, living in Paris, Florence, and Berlin; and he spoke French, German, and Italian, not indeed fluently—for in all languages he had a measured utterance—but with correctness and a pure accent.

It is remarkable that as an undergraduate Munro did not win any of the University prizes for Composition. He certainly competed once for the Porson Prize, but on that occasion he was disqualified for a reason which throws some light on the Don of those days. Two of his schoolfellows, E. H. Gifford of St John's and G. Druce of Peterhouse, had also written for the Porson. On the day for sending in they all met at Druce's rooms to copy each other's exercises; for candidates, then as now, were not allowed to send up their translations in their own handwriting. When they had done their writing, they had supper together; and after supper Gifford carried off all the exercises to deliver them to the Master of St John's, who was then Vice-Chancellor, at St John's Lodge. Next day Gifford received a message from the Vice-Chancellor to this effect: that the academical day ended at 10 p.m.; that the exercises had been handed in after that hour; and that he had therefore marked on all three copies that they were disqualified. Whether Munro competed for other prizes, is not known.

Munro played the game according to the strictest rules. His verses are not a cento of tags from the Classics, dovetailed together with more or less ingenuity; he never admitted the conventional Latin which appears so often in modern Elegiacs. All that he found in the English had, of course, to re-appear in the Latin; still more, he did not like material re-casting of the form. The severity of his method leads at times to a certain baldness. But at other times, when he is inspired by his English and writing in a favourite metre—take as an instance the version in Glyconics of Deborah's Song—the result is something not easily forgotten and not easily distinguishable from an original work of art.

Praefationis loco, qui me lecturus es, hos habeto versiculos facetissimi poetae Valerii Martialis:

Si nimius videor seraque coronide longus esse liber, legito pauca, libellus ero.
terque quaterque mihi finitur carmine parvo pagina: fac tibi me quam cupis esse brevem.

POEMATORUM LIBER LATINE

I.

P. Höret allerliebste klänge!
macht euch schnell von fabeln frei,
eurer götter alt gemenge,
laszt es hin, es ist vorbei.
niemand wird euch mehr verstehen, fordern wir doch höhern zoll,
denn es musz von herzen gehen,
was auf herzen wirken soll.

C. Bist du, fürchterliches wesen, diesem schmeichelton geneigt, fühlen wir als frisch genesen uns zur thränenlust erweicht.
lasz der sonne glanz verschwinden,
wenn es in der seele tagt;
wir im eignen herzen finden
was die ganze welt versagt.

II.

Men without love have oft so cunning grown,
that something like it they have shewn;
but none who had it, e'er seem'd to have none.
love's of a strangely open, simple kind,
can no arts or disguises find,
but thinks none sees it, 'cause itself is blind.

AUT GRAECE TRALATORUM.

I.

P. Hos audite sonos amoeniores:
tempus vos erat expedire falsis, vestrorum sinite obsoleta divom cedat, nam fuit, universa turba.
nemo intelliget ista, flagitamus vectigalia quaestuosiora:
ipsum pectore prodeat necessest, quidquid pectora permovere sumet.

C. Formidabile, cum vel ipsa, monstrum, hoc tam blandiloquo fruare cantu, fletus nos domat aegrimoniarum iucunda velut adlevatione.
per nos lumina solis hinc facessant, luciscat modo pectore intus ipso:
nostris nos animis id invenimus quaesitum quod ab omnibus negatur.

II.

Saepe adeo vafer est factus qui nescit amorem,
vel sine re speciem scit simulare rei:
se tamen experto non dissimulandus in ullo verus amor mira simplicitate patet, scit nullas artes, mendacia fingere nulla, caecus et ipse alios posse videre negat.

III.

Since brass, nor stone, nor earth, nor boundless sea,
but sad mortality o'er-sways their power,
how with this rage shall beauty hold a plea,
whose action is no stronger than a flower?
o, how shall summer's honey breath hold out against the wreckful siege of battering days, when rocks impregnable are not so stout,
nor gates of steel so strong, but time decays?
o fearful meditation! where, alack,
shall time's best jewel from time's chest lie hid?
or what strong hand can hold his swift foot back?
or who his spoil of beauty can forbid?
o, none, unless this miracle have might,
that in black ink my love may still shine bright.

IV.

And now
advanced in view they stand, a horrid front of dreadful length and dazzling arms, in guise of warriors old with ordered spear and shield, awaiting what command their mighty chief had to impose. he through the armed files darts his experienced eye and soon traverse the whole battalion views, their order due,
their visages and stature as of gods,
their number last he sums. and now his heart distends with pride and hardening in his strength glories; for never since created man met such embodied force, as named with these could merit more than that small infantry
warred on by cranes; tho' all the giant brood

III.

Aes quoniam, lapides, terram, sine finibus aequor, omnia lugubris vi Libitina domat, quid? Venus has contra causam contenderit iras, quae vix, quidquid agit, robora floris habet?
expugnatorum contra tormenta dierum melleus aestatis pertolerabit odor, cum tamen indomitae rupes aetate fatiscant claustraque portarum ferrea tempus edat?
horresco meditans: ubi temporis optima gemma temporis a loculis, ei mihi, sospes erit?
dextra citum quae tanta gradum reprehendere possit?
aut spoliaturo pulchra quis esse morae?
nemo, nisi haec valeant miracula, noster in atris candidus ut niteat perpetuusque notis.

IV.

Iamque in conspectu stant comminus, horrida ductu praelongo immani frons et rutilantibus armis, bellatorum instar veterum quae derigit hastam et clypeum, expectans quid dux sibi magnus agendum imperet. armatos obit impiger ille maniplos lumine sollerti, totumque inde ordine iusto derectum, transversa tuens, cito dispicit agmen, oraque, uti divom, proceraque corpora lustrat,
et numerum postremus init. iam conscia fastu corda tument et opes indurescentia iactant ipsa suas; neque enim coiit vis ulla creatos post homines usquam legionum robore tanto, quae collata simul pluris meruisset haberi, quam parvus pedes ille gruum infestatus ab armis;
omnis ut una esset suboles Phlegraea gigantum, of Phlegra with the heroic race were joined that fought at Thebes and Ilium, on each side mixed with auxiliar gods; and what resounds in fable or romance of Uther's son begirt with British and Armoric knights.

V.

Shun delays, they breed remorse,
take thy time while time doth serve thee,
creeping snails have weakest force,
fly their fault lest thou repent thee.
good is best when soonest wrought, lingred labours come to nought.
Hoise up sail while gale doth last,
tide and wind stay no man's pleasure;
seek not time when time is past,
sober speed is wisdom's leisure.
afterwits are dearly bought,
let thy forewit guide thy thought.
Time wears all his locks before,
take thy hold upon his forehead;
when he flies he turns no more,
and behind his scalp is naked.
works adjourned have many stays,
long demurs breed new delays.
Seek thy salve while sore is green, festred wounds ask deeper lancing,
after-cures are seldom seen,
often sought scarce ever chancing.

heroumque genus quod bella gerebat ad altam Ilion ac Thebas, permixtum utrimque deorum auxiliis; quantamque virum resonare per ora fama loquax vel scripta docent, Uterana propago cincta Britannorumque et Aremorico equitatu.

V.

Tolle moras, dolor unde tibi succrescet amarus,
arripe labentem, dum sinit hora, diem,
reptanti cocleae vis est tenuissima, quarum,
ne pigeat, noli criminis esse reus.
sunt bona quae temptas? cito perfice, et optima fient:
occidit ad nilum quem remorere labor.
pande sinus, tua vela dato spirantibus auris, nullius arbitrio pontus et auster eunt.
fugerit hora semel, fugiat; qui sobrius urget semper opus, sapiens otia semper habet*.
stat magno bona mens Epimetheos empta; fac ergo arte Promethea tu tua corda regas.
omnes ante gerit crinita fronte capillos tempus: in adverso vertice fige manum:
nec respectanti iam, cum fugit, aufugit ore,
levis et occipiti nudaque calva patet.
multimodis pendent opera interrupta, diuque versavisse novas est generasse moras.
vulnere iam crudo medicamina quaere: secandum altius hoc, quotiens inveterascet, erit.
vix ratiost remedi, cum iam sanata gravescunt:
saepe quidem petitur, saepe petita fugit.

neu pete praeteritam, quando semel avolat, horam:
sobrius adproperas? otia nacte, sapis.

time and place give best advice,
out of season out of price.
Crush the serpent in the head,
break ill eggs ere they be hatched;
kill bad chickens in the tread,
fligg, they hardly can be catched.
in the rising stifle ill,
lest it grow against thy will.
Drops do pierce the stubborn flint,
not by force but often falling;
custom kills with feeble dint,
more by use than strength prevailing.
single sands have little weight,
many make a drowning freight.
Tender twigs are bent with ease,
aged trees do break with bending;
young desires make little prease,
growth doth make them past amending.
happy man, that soon doth knock Babel babes against the rock!

Sweet western wind, whose luck it is,
made rival of the air,
to give Perenna's lips a kiss
and fan her wanton hair, Bring me but one; I'll promise thee,
instead of common showers,
thy wings shall be embalmed by me,
and all beset with flowers.

sunt consulta loco, sunt tempore capta, iuvabunt;
intempestivast merx, ego nullus emo.
frange caput colubro; mala dissice naviter ova providus exclusae ne pariantur aves.
fac peremas ipso nequam incrementa sub ortu, ales enim volitans vix erit apta capi.
suffocare mali nascentia semina praestat, ne tibi nolenti mox grave fiat onus.
gutta minutatim, non vi sed saepe cadendo,

Suavis favoni, sors quoniam dedit libare nostrae Phyllidis oscula auraeque rivali comarum luxuriem tibi ventilare, Nobis fer unum, nil precor amplius:
sudes odoris sic opobalsamis,
non imbre plebeio, vagasque floribus impediare pinnas.

Contented wi' little, and cantie wi' mair, whene'er I forgather wi' sorrow and care,
I gie them a skelp as they're creepin' alang, wi' a cog o' gude swats and an auld Scottish sang.
I whiles claw the elbow o' troublesome thought,
but man is a sodger and life is a faught;
my mirth and gude humour are coin in my pouch,
and my freedom's my lairdship nae monarch dare touch.
A towmond o' trouble, should that be my fa',
a night o' gude fellowship sowthers it a'.
when at the blythe end of our journey at last,
wha the deil ever thinks o' the road he has past?
Blind Chance, let her snapper and stoyte on her way,
be't to me, be't frae me, e'en let the jade gae:
come ease, or come travail, come pleasure or pain,
my warst word is 'welcome, and welcome again.'

VIII.

O, what a rogue and peasant slave am I!
is it not monstrous that this player here,
but in a fiction, in a dream of passion,
could force his soul so to his own conceit that from her working all his visage wanned, tears in his eyes, distraction in's aspect,
a broken voice, and his whole function suiting with forms to his conceit? and all for nothing, for Hecuba:
what's Hecuba to him, or he to Hecuba,
that he should weep for her? what should he do,

VII.

Contentus parvo, maiore beatus acervo, adveniunt quotiens cura dolorque mihi, incutio colaphum reptantibus: acre Falernum et veteris Latii musa ministrat opem.
saepe frico cubitum, male habet cum cura; sed instar militiae vitast, militat omnis homo;
aureus in zona bona mens mihi laetaque, et ipsi libertas regi non violandus ager.
sors mea sit duros annum subiisse labores,
nox inter comites sarciet una bonos.
ecquis enim, cursus hilari iam fine potitus, Iuppiter! exactae vult meminisse viae?
claudicet, ut graditur, titubet Fors, caecaque paelex sive propinquabit sive recedet, eat.
estne bene, an secus est? est suaviter, anne moleste?
'salve, iterum salve,' sic, neque plura, loquor.

ὥστ' ἐκδακρῦσαί νιν; τί δ' ἂν δρᾷη λαβὴν

had he the motive and the cue for passion that I have? he would drown the stage with tears
and cleave the general ear with horrid speech, make mad the guilty and appal the free,
confound the ignorant, and amaze indeed
the very faculties of eyes and ears:
yet I,
a dull and muddy-mettled rascal, peak,
like John-a-dreams, unpregnant of my cause,
and can say nothing, no, not for a king upon whose property and most dear life
a damned defeat was made.
this is most brave,
that I, the son of a dear father murdered,
prompted to my revenge by heaven and hell,
must, like a whore, unpack my heart with words,
and fall a-cursing, like a very drab,
a scullion!

He asked water,
and she gave him milk,
she brought forth butter
in a lordly dish.
She put her hand to the nail,
and her right hand to the workman's hammer,
and with the hammer she smote Sisera,
she smote off his head,
when she had pierced

At her feet he bowed,
he fell, he lay down:
at her feet he bowed, he fell:
where he bowed,
there he fell down dead.
The mother of Sisera

'why is his chariot so long in coming,
why tarry the wheels of his chariot?'
Her wise ladies answered her, yea, she returned answer to herself
'Have they not sped?
have they not divided the spoil?
to every man a damsel or two?
to Sisera a prey of divers colours,
a prey of divers colours of needle-work,
of divers colours of needle-work on both sides,
meet for the necks
of them that take the spoil?'

The spacious firmament on high with all the blue ethereal sky,
and spangled heavens, a shining frame,
their great Original proclaim.
the unwearied sun from day to day does his Creator's power display and publishes to every land
the work of an almighty hand.
Soon as the evening shades prevail,
the moon takes up the wondrous tale and nightly to the listening earth repeats the story of her birth;
whilst all the stars that round her burn and all the planets in their turn confirm the tidings as they roll,
and spread the truth from pole to pole.
What though in solemn silence all move round the dark terrestrial ball?
what though nor real voice nor sound amid their radiant orbs be found?
in reason's ear they all rejoice and utter forth a glorious voice, for ever singing as they shine
'the hand that made us is divine.'

'Siede la terra, dove nata fui, sulla marina dove il Po discende per aver pace co' seguaci sui.
Amor, che al cor gentil ratto s' apprende, prese costui della bella persona che mi fu tolta, e il modo ancor m' offende.
Amor, che a nullo amato amar perdona,
mi prese del costui piacer sì forte,
che, come vedi, ancor non mi abbandona.
Amor condusse noi ad una morte:
Caina attende chi vita ci spense.'
queste parole da lor ci fur porte.
Da che io intesi quelle anime offense,
chinai 'l viso, e tanto il tenni basso, finchè il poeta mi disse 'che pense?' Quando risposi, cominciai 'o lasso, quanti dolci pensier, quanto disio menò costoro al doloroso passo!'
Poi mi rivolsi a loro, e parla' io, e cominciai 'Francesca, i tuoi martiri al lagrimar mi fanno tristo e pio.
Ma dimmi: al tempo de' dolci sospiri,
a che e come concedette amore, che conoscesti i dubbiosi desiri?'
Ed ella a me 'nessun maggior dolore, che ricordarsi del tempo felice

durus amor, nulli qui se condonat amato, me rursum usque adeo cepit dulcedine amantis,
ut mihi nunc etiam videas decedere nolle.
saevus amor nos inde necem perduxit ad unam;
auctorem Caina necis manet.' hactenus isti.
postquam indignantes audivi effarier umbras, lumina deieci defixusque ora tenebam,
cum tandem vates 'animo quid volvis?' at illi sic orsus refero 'quanta et quam grata cupido, heu heu, quantus amor clademque importavit acerbam!'
tum conversus ad hos, 'miseret, Francisca, tui me' incipio 'lacrimasque movet tuus anxius angor.

Noi leggevamo un giorno per diletto di Lancelotto, come amor lo strinse:
soli eravamo e senza alcun sospetto.
Per più fiate gli occhi ci sospinse quella lettura e scolorocci il viso.
ma solo un punto fu quel che ci vinse:
Quando leggemmo il disiato riso esser baciato da cotanto amante,
questi, che mai da me non fia diviso,
La bocca mi baciò tutto tremante:
Galeotto fu il libro, e chi lo scrisse:
quel giorno più non vi leggemmo avante.' Mentre che l' uno spirto questo disse,
l' altro piangeva sì, che di pietade io venni meno sì com' io morisse,
E caddi, come corpo morto cade.

Lo, she turns—immortal youth

te sociam studeo scribendis versibus esse quos ego de rerum natura pangere conor Memmiadae nostro, quem tu, dea, tempore in omni omnibus ornatum voluisti excellere rebus.

B. How can I busk a bonnie bonnie bride?
how can I busk a winsome marrow?
how lue him on the banks of Tweed,
that slew my luve on the Braes of Yarrow?
O Yarrow fields, may never rain,
no dew thy tender blossoms cover;
for there was basely slain my luve,
my luve, as he had not been a luver.
The boy put on his robes of green,
his purple vest, 'twas my ain sewin':

A. Sumere munditias, mea formosissima nupta, altera pars nostri, sumere tempus erat;
tempus erat Tevidae me flumina propter amare,
cumque suis valeat Girva, iubere, iugis.

B. Possum ego munditias pulcherrima sumere nupta?
possum ego dimidium me perhibere tui?
hunc ut amem Tevidae iam flumina propter, amato per iuga qui Girvae funeris auctor erat?
imber agris, o Girva, tuis nascentia numquam germina, non roris gutta liquore tegat;
nam meus est illic indigna morte peremptus,
ille meus, tamquam non tamen esset amans.
induitur prasino puer illita pallia fuco, subter, opus, tunicast murice clara, meum.
me miseram! fieri quod vix ego posse putaram,

he was in these to meet his ruin.
Much I rejoiced that waeful day,
I sang, my voice the woods returning;
but lang ere night the spear was flown,
that slew my luve and left me mourning.
Yes, yes, prepare the bed of luve,
with bridal sheets my body cover,
unbar, ye bridal maids, the door,
let in the expected husband luver.
But who the expected husband is?
his hands methinks are bathed in slaughter.
ah me! what ghastly spectre's yon,
comes in his pale shroud bleeding after?
Pale as he is, here lay him down,
o lay his cold head on my pillow;
take aff, take aff these bridal weeds,
and crown my careful head with willow.

A. Return, return, o mournful bride, return and dry thy useless sorrow;
thy luver heeds nought of thy sighs,
he lies a corpse on the Braes of Yarrow.

XV.

Weep no more, woeful shepherds, weep no more,
for Lycidas, your sorrow, is not dead,
sunk tho' he be beneath the watery floor:
so sinks the day-star in the ocean bed,
and yet anon repairs his drooping head and tricks his beams and with new-spangled ore flames in the forehead of the morning sky:

vestitu tamen hoc interiturus erat.
ut male sum laetata, die properante sinistra!
ut cecini, numeris adsonuitque nemus!
sed nox multum aberat puerumque volatilis hasta straverat, et luctu mersa relinquor ego.
quid loquor? actutum genialem sternite lectum, membra mihi stratum coniugiale tegat;
festinate fores thalami reserare, puellae, expectatus adest, ingrediatur amans.
quis tamen est hic sponsus, hic expectatus amator?
fallor, an effusa dextera caede madet?
ei mihi! pone sequens quae, pallida morte, figura sindone cum nivea sanguinolenta venit?
pallida sit quamvis, tamen hic deponite, vos o ponite pulvino frigida colla meo.
at vestes auferte, mihi has auferte iugales, sollicitumque salix ambiat apta caput.
A. Maesta, redi iam, nupta, redi, siccentur inanes haec lacrimae quae nil utilitatis habent:
ille tuus tua nil suspiria curat amator,
ille iugis Girvae corpus inane iacet.

XV.

Sistite lugubrem, pastores, sistite fletum:
non periit vester Lycidas dolor, ut sit aquarum marmora demersus subter: sic mergitur alto oceani gremio radiatum insigne diei, et tamen actutum languens caput erigit, ignes instaurans, aurique novo splendente metallo in matutini flagrat primo aetheris ore.

so Lycidas sunk low, but mounted high,
through the dear might of Him that walked the waves,
where other groves and other streams along with nectar pure his oozy locks he laves, and hears the unexpressive nuptial song
in the blest kingdoms meek of joy and love.
there entertain him all the Saints above
in solemn troops and sweet societies, that sing and singing in their glory move,
and wipe the tears for ever from his eyes.
now, Lycidas, the shepherds weep no more:
henceforth thou art the Genius of the shore in thy large recompense, and shalt be good to all that wander in the perilous flood.

XVI.

Unthrifty loveliness, why dost thou spend upon thyself thy beauty's legacy?
nature's bequest gives nothing but doth lend,
and being frank she lends to those are free.
then, beauteous niggard, why dost thou abuse
the bounteous largess given thee to give?
profitless usurer, why dost thou use
so great a sum of sums, yet canst not live?
for having traffic with thyself alone,
thou of thyself thy sweet self dost deceive.
then how, when nature calls thee to be gone,
what acceptable audit canst thou leave?
thy unused beauty must be tombed with thee which, used, lives th' executor to be.

sic, alte Lycidas mersus modo, tollitur alte Illius virtute, pedes qui fluctibus ibat;
iamque novos propter lucos, nova flumina, crines ipse lavit puro lutulentos nectare, et audit
in faustis hymenaeon, inenarrabile carmen, mitibus in regnis, ubi gaudia amorque perennant.
illic omnis eum quae supra est turba piorum excipit: inter se sollemnibus illa maniplis iucundisque sodaliciis canit inque canendo fertur ovans, lacrimasque viro deterget in aevum.
nunc, Lycida, non flent pastores: litoris hinc iam
perpetuum tutamen habes fruerisque laborum ingenti mercede, et eris bonus ipse vaganti, gurgitis illius quicumque pericula temptat.

XVI.

Prodige, cur decus hoc formae te perdis in uno,
et legata tibi quae fuit, ipse comes?
mancipio nulli natura, dat omnibus usu,
et largis larga commodat alma manu.
pulcher, ut es, quid, avare, bono male abuteris amplo,
quod tibi largitast ut data dona dares?
indigus usuras inter cur utere tanta summarum summa, vivitur unde nihil?
solus enim tecum exercens commercia, qui sis dulcis ita, hunc dulcem surripis ipse tibi.
ergo ubi te natura citans mandarit abire, conficies tabulas qua ratione tuas?
forma, nisi usus eris, tecum* tumulabitur una:
viva procurabit, si tamen usus eris.

XVII.

Sin of self-love possesseth all mine eye
and all my soul and all my every part;
and for this sin there is no remedy,
it is so grounded inward in my heart.
methinks no face so gracious is as mine,
no shape so true, no truth of such account;
and for myself mine own worth do define,
as I all other in all worths surmount.
but when my glass shows me myself indeed,
beated and chopped with tanned antiquity,
mine own self-love quite contrary I read:
self so self-loving were iniquity.
'tis thee, myself, that for myself I praise,
painting my age with beauty of thy days.

XVIII.

O, never say that I was false of heart,
though absence seemed my flame to qualify.
as easy might I from myself depart
as from my soul, which in thy breast doth lie:
this is my home of love: if I have ranged,
like him that travels I return again,
just to the time, not with the time exchanged,
so that myself bring water for my stain.
never believe, though in my nature reigned
all frailties that besiege all kinds of blood, that it could so preposterously be stained,
to leave for nothing all thy sum of good;
for nothing this wide universe I call,
save thou, my rose; in it thou art my all.

XVII.

Totosque pravus hic amor mei visus totumque pectus, omne possidet membrum, pravi nec ullumst huius adlevamentum,
sic corde in ipsost funditusque fundatus.
os tam venustum quam meum, puto, nulli, tam vera forma, veritasque tam rara;
definioque sic mihi meas dotes, omnes ego omni dote ceteros vinco.
imaginoso ut me tamen vitro vidi tusum atque tritum squalida vetustate, mei hunc amorem tum lego retroversus:
amare sic se summa iniquitas esset.
sum tu ipse, qui me praedicaverim pro te tuoque flore pinxerim meam aetatem.

XVIII.

O, numquam argueris me falsum, absentia quamvis visa meam fuerit deminuisse facem.
non anima levius, quam me divellar ab ipso,
et tamen haec habitat pectore clausa tuo.
illa domus dilecta meast: si iuverit ultra isse, viatoris more redire iuvat.
nil ego mutatus cum tempore, tempore veni, quique latex maculas eluat, ipse fero.
crede, mea quamvis regnaret in indole, quidquid nequitiae temptat sanguinis omne genus, numquam, quae nihil est, (foret haec praepostera labes) permutaretur re tua summa boni.
namque nihil summam summae puto totius ad te,
flos meus: unus in hac unus es omne mihi.

XIX.

O truant muse, what shall be thy amends
for thy neglect of truth in beauty dyed?
both truth and beauty on my love depends,
so dost thou too, and therein dignified.
make answer, muse: wilt thou not haply say 'truth needs no colour, with his colour fixed;
beauty no pencil, beauty's truth to lay;
but best is best, if never intermixed?'
because he needs no praise, wilt thou be dumb?
excuse not silence so; for't lies in thee
to make him much outlive a gilded tomb,
and to be praised of ages yet to be.
then do thy office, muse, I teach thee how to make him seem long hence as he shews now.

XX.

Your love and pity doth the impression fill which vulgar scandal stamped upon my brow;
for what care I who calls me well or ill,
so you o'er-green my bad, my good allow?
you are my all the world, and I must strive to know my shames and praises from your tongue;
none else to me, nor I to none alive,
that my steeled sense or changes right or wrong.
in so profound abysm I throw all care of others' voices, that my adder's sense to critic and to flatterer stopped are.
mark how with my neglect I do dispense:
you are so strongly in my purpose bred that all the world besides methinks are dead.

XIX.

Qua, musa, poena te, remissa, multabo, quod veritatem neglegis venustate litam? meo omnes ex amore pendetis, et veritas et forma, tuque amore isto claranda. quid causare? forsitan dicas
'tincta hoc colore veritas eget nullo, nec penicillo, quo linat venustatem veram, venustas: absoluta permisces?'
maior quia hic sit laude, muta mussabis?
non sic tacens causere, quam penes solamst, si vincat aurea hic sepulcra vivendo victorque nondum nata pervolet saecla.
quare hoc agas, o musa: posteris seris hunc qualis hodiest, me docente, monstrabis.

XX.

Eximit hoc maculam famae vulgaris inustam fronte mea, quod amas et miserere mei.
nam quid ego hoc curo, quis me laudetve notetve,
tu modo fucaris turpia, digna probes?
summarum mea summa, tuo, quid honestet, ab ore discere conabor, quaeque inhonesta voces.
nil mihi cum quoquam vivo, quod flectere possit (fixus itast) sensum iure secusve meum.
vox aliorum omnis barathro demissa profundo,
seu sit adulantis sive notantis, eat;
omnem obturato capiam, ceu vipera, sensu;
curque nihil curem, percipe, causa subest:
quisquis ubique, homines* simulacra ut luce carentum sunt mihi, tam penitus pectora tota tenes.

M. Wherefore was that cry?
S. The queen, my lord, is dead.
M. She should have died hereafter, there would have been a time for such a word.
tomorrow, and tomorrow, and tomorrow creeps in this petty pace from day to day to the last syllable of recorded time,
and all our yesterdays have lighted fools
the way to dusty death. out, out, brief candle!
life's but a walking shadow, a poor player that struts and frets his hour upon the stage and then is heard no more: it is a tale told by an idiot, full of sound and fury, signifying nothing.
thou comest to use thy tongue; thy story quickly.

XXII.

The curfeu tolls the knell of parting day,
the lowing herd wind slowly o'er the lea,
the plowman homeward plods his weary way
and leaves the world to darkness and to me.
Now fades the glimmering landscape on the sight,
and all the air a solemn stillness holds,
save where the beetle wheels his droning flight,
or drowsy tinkleings lull the distant folds, Save that from yonder ivy-mantled tower
the mopeing owl does to the moon complain of such as wandering near her secret bower molest her ancient solitary reign.

Beneath those rugged elms, that yewtree's shade,
where heaves the turf in many a mouldering heap,
each in his narrow cell for ever laid the rude forefathers of the hamlet sleep.
The breezy call of incense-breathing morn,
the swallow twittering from the straw-built shed,
the cock's shrill clarion, or the ecchoing horn,
no more shall rouse them from their lowly bed.
For them no more the blazing hearth shall burn,
or busy huswife ply her evening care,
no children run to lisp their sire's return,
or climb his knees the envied kiss to share.
Oft did the harvest to their sickle yield,
their furrow oft the stubborn glebe has broke:
how jocund did they drive their team afield!
how bowed the woods beneath their sturdy stroke!
Let not ambition mock their useful toil,
their homely joys and destiny obscure,
nor grandeur hear with a disdainful smile
the short and simple annals of the poor.
The boast of heraldry, the pomp of power,
and all that beauty, all that wealth e'er gave awaits alike the inevitable hour:
the paths of glory lead but to the grave.
Nor you, ye proud, impute to these the fault,
if memory o'er their tomb no trophies raise,
where thro' the long-drawn ile and fretted vault

praedaque robustae silva bipennis erat!

the pealing anthem swells the note of praise.
Can storied urn or animated bust back to its mansion call the fleeting breath?
can honour's voice provoke the silent dust,
or flattery sooth the dull cold ear of death?
Perhaps in this neglected spot is laid some heart once pregnant with celestial fire, hands that the rod of empire might have swayed,
or waked to ecstasy the living lyre.
But knowledge to their eyes her ample page rich with the spoils of time did ne'er unroll:
chill penury repressed their noble rage,
and froze the genial current of the soul.
Full many a gem of purest ray serene
the dark unfathomed caves of ocean bear:
full many a flower is born to blush unseen,
and waste its sweetness on the desert air.
Some village Hambden that with dauntless breast
the little tyrant of his fields withstood, some mute inglorious Milton here may rest,
some Cromwell guiltless of his country's blood.
The applause of listening senates to command,
the threats of pain and ruin to despise,
to scatter plenty o'er a smiling land,
and read their history in a nation's eyes
Their lot forbad: nor circumscribed alone their growing virtues, but their crimes confined, forbad to wade thro' slaughter to a throne,
and shut the gates of mercy on mankind,
The struggling pangs of conscious truth to hide,
to quench the blushes of ingenuous shame,
or heap the shrine of luxury and pride multiplices reboant vocibus icta sonos.

caelata historiis animam revocare fugacem urna domum? facies marmore viva potest?
voce valet cinerem succendere gloria mutum?
auris amat blandos torpida morte sonos?
hoc fortasse loco, qua sic tamen omnia sordent, aetherio fetum cor prius igne iacet, sceptrum habiles tenuisse manus, vitave deoque expergefactam participasse lyram.
sed spoliis aevi sapientia largiter auctum noluit ante oculos evoluisse librum:
algida sublimes aestus compressit egestas adstrinxitque suo vivida corda gelu.
saepe renidentes praeclara luce lapillos antra maris, caeca nocte profunda, gerunt;
nascitur occulto flos saepe rubetque recessu,
aeraque in vacuum perditus exit odor.
forsitan hic, olim intrepido qui pectore ruris restiterat parvo Graccus agrestis ero, vel mutus sine honore Maro, vel Iulius alter, immunis patrii sanguinis ille, cubet.
oribus intentos ad plausum cogere patres,
quas dolor offerret, spernere, forsve minas, omnia ridentes diffundere laeta per urbes,
et legere in populi vultibus Acta sua, sors vetuit; solas neque circumscripsit in auctu virtutes: sceleri frena modumque dedit, ad solium vetuit per caedes vadere, et arcem claudere quam miseris panderet alma salus, conscia luctantis vetuit conamina veri abdere et ingenuas perfricuisse genas, luxuriae tumidique adolere altaria fastus

with incense kindled at the muse's flame.
Far from the madding crowd's ignoble strife,
their sober wishes never learned to stray:
along the cool sequestered vale of life
they kept the noiseless tenour of their way.
Yet even these bones from insult to protect some frail memorial still erected nigh, with uncouth rhimes and shapeless sculpture decked,
implores the passing tribute of a sigh.
Their name, their years spelt by the unlettered muse
the place of fame and elegy supply,
and many a holy text around she strews,
that teach the rustic moralist to die.
For who to dumb forgetfulness a prey
this pleasing anxious being e'er resigned, left the warm precincts of the chearful day,
nor cast—one longing lingering look behind?
On some fond breast the parting soul relies,
some pious drops the closing eye requires;
even from the tomb the voice of nature cries,
even in our ashes live their wonted fires.
For thee, who mindful of the unhonoured dead
dost in these lines their artless tale relate,
if chance, by lonely contemplation led,
some kindred spirit shall enquire thy fate, Haply some hoary-headed swain may say
'oft have we seen him at the peep of dawn brushing with hasty steps the dews away to meet the sun upon the upland lawn.
There at the foot of yonder nodding beech,
that wreaths its old fantastic roots on high,
his listless length at noontide would he stretch

Pieriae flammis ture flagrante facis.
insana procul urbe, fori certamine foedo,

musa potest male docta tamen dare nomen et annos, quodque elegi praestant famaque, praestat idem,

quis subiturus enim Lethaea silentia, dulce tormentum hanc animam deposuisse tulit, linquere iucundi loca luminis alma nec—uno respectu cupido—significare moram?
vult anima excessura sinus fulcimen amici, vult acies guttam nubila nocte piam;
eicit ex ipso vocem natura sepulcro,

sic respondebit, 'se reserante die,
verrere festino pede rores perque supinos

ecce sub hac fago nutante, retortaque radix cui vetus est miris exseriturque modis, membra die medio prosternere lentus amabat,

and pore upon the brook that babbles by.
Hard by yon wood, now smiling as in scorn, muttering his wayward fancies would he rove;
now drooping woeful-wan, like one forlorn,
or crazed with care, or crossed in hopeless love.
One morn I missed him on the customed hill,
along the heath, and near his favourite tree:
another came; nor yet beside the rill,
nor up the lawn, nor at the wood was he.
The next with dirges due in sad array slow thro' the churchway path we saw him borne.
approach and read, for thou can'st read, the lay graved on the stone beneath yon aged thorn'.
Here rests his head upon the lap of earth
a youth to fortune and to fame unknown:
fair science frowned not on his humble birth,
and melancholy marked him for her own.
Large was his bounty and his soul sincere:
heaven did a recompense as largely send:
he gave to misery all he had a tear;
he gained from heaven, 'twas all he wished, a friend.
No farther seek his merits to disclose,
or draw his frailties from their dread abode, (there they alike in trembling hope repose)
the bosom of his Father and his God.

In a great river great fish are found,
but take heed lest you be drowned.

ore inhians rivum qui prope garrit aquae.
it modo cum risu, radens nemus istud, amaro, vanaque mussanti somnia voce iacit;
nunc cadit os, palletque miser similisque relicto,
curave quem furiat, vel malus angit amor.
mane erat, assueto non illum in vertice vidi,
nec dumeta tenent, nec sua fagus habet.
altera lux venit, nec nunc tamen aut prope rivumst aut superat saltus aut nemus ille legit.
tertia adest, maesto cum planctibus agmine ad aedem elatum lentam vidimus ire viam:
accede et veterem scalptos ibi subter acanthum
in lapide hoc versus perlege, namque potes'.
Hic caput in gremio terrae iuvenale reponit, quem fortuna habuit, quem procul omnis honor:
candida non humiles fastidiit Aonis ortus, curaque 'mancipii res' ait 'iste mei'.
immensa huic bonitas, mens simplicitatis apertae:
par meritis merces numine missa deist:
quod potuit, miseris lacrimam largitus, amicum,
quod voluit, caeli munere nanctus erat.
desine virtutes recludere, desine culpas protrahere augusto de lare velle suo:
utraque ibi pariter spe cum pavitante quiescunt,
qui pater et deus est, huius operta sinu.

Invenies magnos in magno flumine pisces,
sed invenire mersus et necem potes.

XXIV.

Two voices are there, one is of the sea,
one of the mountains, each a mighty voice:
in both from age to age thou didst rejoice,
they were thy chosen music, Liberty:
there came a tyrant, and with holy glee thou fought'st against him, but hast vainly striven:
thou from thy Alpine holds at length art driven,
where not a torrent murmurs heard by thee.
of one deep bliss thine ear hath been bereft,
then cleave, o cleave to that which still is left;
for, high-souled maid, what sorrow would it be that mountain floods should thunder as before,
and ocean bellow from his rocky shore,
and neither awful voice be heard by thee!

XXV.

Fill the cup and fill the can,
have a rouse before the morn:
every minute dies a man,
every minute one is born.
Drink and let the parties rave:
they are filled with idle spleen,
rising, falling, like a wave,
for they know not what they mean.
He that roars for liberty faster binds the tyrant's power, and the tyrant's cruel glee forces on the freer hour.
Fill the can and fill the cup:
all the windy ways of men

XXIV.

Sunt geminae voces, quarum haec maris, illa iugorum, utraque vox ingens: longum gavisa per aevum, Libertas, ambabus eras, id amicius omni carmen. at hostis adest: contra bellare tyrannum (et pugnae tibi sanctus amor); sed bella moventur nequiquam; fugis Alpinis exterrita claustris, auditusque tibi torrens non murmurat usquam.
auribus una tuis alta est extorta voluptas,
quare o, quae superest, huic ambitiosius haere.
nam quantum pigeat, praestanti corde virago, flumina si montana tonent, si litore, ut olim, oceanus saxoso immugiat usque, nec aures vox augusta tuas aut haec aut illa lacessat!

XXV.

Siste crateram cyathisque sumptis
liber indulge genio ante lucem:
quodque momentum videt hunc perire, nascier illum.
Tu bibe et caeco sine factiones splene delirent; sibi nescientes quid velint crescuntque caduntque rursum ceu maris unda.
Artius contendit enim tyranni vincla libertatis ineptus auctor, huius adventum properat maligno ille triumpho.
Siste crateram cyathisque sumptis
spiritum ride popularis aurae,

are but dust that rises up
and is lightly laid again.
Greet her with applausive breath,
Freedom, gaily doth she tread,
in her right a civic wreath,
in her left a human head.
No, I love not what is new:
she is of an ancient house,
and I think we know the hue
of that cap upon her brows.
Let her go: her thirst she slakes
where the bloody conduit runs;
then her sweetest meal she makes
on the firstborn of her sons.

XXVI.

Of these the false Achitophel was first,
a name to all succeeding ages curst:
for close designs and crooked counsels fit, sagacious, bold and turbulent of wit,
restless, unfixed in principles and place,
in power unpleased, impatient of disgrace;
a fiery soul, which working out its way fretted the pigmy body to decay and o'er-informed the tenement of clay.
a daring pilot in extremity,
pleased with the danger when the waves went high,
he sought the storms; but for a calm unfit would steer too nigh the sands to boast his wit.
great wits are sure to madness near allied and thin partitions do their bounds divide;

vana quae surgit leviorque rursum pulvere* sidit.
Alma Libertas, tibi gratulamur:
civica dextram redimita quercu et caput portans hominis sinistra vadere gestis.
Displicent nobis nova, pervetustum tu genus iactas, tuus usitato cognitus, ni fallor, apex rubore tempora velat.
I, sitim sedas ubi aquae viarum sanguinem manant; tua deinde proles pabulum praebet tibi delicatum maxima natu.

XXVI.

His falsus caput ille fuit, cui nomen ab omni excipiet turpem posteritate notam:
insidiis natus tortisque ambagibus, audax callidus—ingenium seditione potens:
inrequietus, amans animum mutare locumque, sordet enim datus huic, angit ademptus honor.
Pygmaeum male corpus, iter dum rumpit, habebat ignea mens, limo vix laris apta sui.
rector in extremis audens avidusque procellae captabat tumidi grata pericla sali;
sed nimium, freta ferre negans tranquilla, premebat vicinas syrtes, ingeniosus homo!
ingenio certe non multum insania distat et tenuis fines separat ora duos;

else, why should he with wealth and honour blest refuse his age the needful hours of rest?
punish a body which he could not please,
bankrupt of life, yet prodigal of ease?
and all to leave what with his toil he won
to that unfeathered two-legged thing, a son, got, while his soul did huddled notions try,
and born a shapeless lump, like anarchy.
in friendship false, implacable in hate,
resolved to ruin or to rule the state;
to compass this the triple bond he broke,
the pillars of the public safety shook,
and fitted Israel for a foreign yoke;
then, seized with fear, yet still affecting fame,
usurped a patriot's all-atoning name.
so easy still it proves in factious times with public zeal to cancel private crimes.

XXVII.

Where were ye, Nymphs, when the remorseless deep closed o'er the head of your loved Lycidas?
for neither were ye playing on the steep,
where your old bards, the famous Druids, lie, nor on the shaggy top of Mona high,
nor yet where Deva spreads her wizard stream.
ay me! I fondly dream
had ye been there; for what could that have done?
what could the Muse herself that Orpheus bore,
the Muse herself, for her enchanting son?
whom universal nature did lament,
when by the rout that made the hideous roar

aut horas somni quas flagitet, ille senectae cur opibus dives, dives honore, neget?
quodque frui nequeat, corpus cur puniat ultro?
vita ruat, curas augeat ipse suas?
et tamen ut tanto capiat quaesita labore filius! implumis scilicet ille bipes, res genita in turbis animi, rudis edita moles, taeter ut informi civicus ore furor!
falsus amicitiis, odio implacabilis idem, vertere decrerat rem vel habere sibi.
rupit ob haec triplex foedus columenque salutis laesit, ut externo gens foret apta iugo.
iamque timens, famam adfectans tamen, 'omnia' dixit
'mentito patriae fretus amore luam.'
sic facilest studio populari, turbida cum sunt tempora, privatum dissimulare nefas.

XXVII.

Qua, nymphae, fueratis, inexorabile marmor
ut vestri Lycidae subter caput hausit amatum?
nam neque ludus erat vobis in vertice clivi,
qua Druidae, vates antiqua laude, quiescunt, vester honos; nec Mona iugo qua surgit ad auras hirta suo, vel Deva magum tamen explicat amnem.
ei mihi, vos vano somni frustramine fingo praesentes: quid enim praesentia vestra iuvaret?
Musa quid ipsa, inquam, genetrix Orpheia, iuvit, natum Musa suum, tenuit quamquam omnia cantu,
et rerum lamentatast natura peremptum, quando illum thiasus taetrum mittens ululatum

his gory visage down the stream was sent,
down the swift Hebrus to the Lesbian shore.
alas! what boots it with incessant care to tend the homely slighted shepherd's trade and strictly meditate the thankless muse?
were it not better done, as others use,
to sport with Amaryllis in the shade
or with the tangles of Neaera's hair?
fame is the spur that the clear spirit doth raise,
that last infirmity of noble mind,
to scorn delights and live laborious days.
but the fair guerdon when we hope to find
and think to burst out into sudden blaze, comes the blind fury with the abhorred shears,
and slits the thin-spun life: 'but not the praise'
Phoebus replied, and touched my trembling ears.

XXVIII.

Lasz dich, geliebte, nicht reun, dasz du mir so schnell dich ergeben;
glaub' es, ich denke nicht frech, denke nicht niedrig von dir.
vielfach wirken die pfeile des Amor: einige ritzen,
und vom schleichenden gift kranket auf jahre das herz.
aber mächtig befiedert, mit frisch geschliffener schärfe, dringen die andern ins mark, zünden behende das blut.
in der heroischen zeit, da götter und göttinnen liebten, folgte begierde dem blick, folgte genusz der begier.
glaubst du, es habe sich lange die göttin der liebe besonnen, als im Idäischen hain einst ihr Anchises gefiel?
hätte Luna gesäumt den schönen schläfer zu küssen,
o, so hätt' ihn geschwind, neidend, Aurora geweckt.

ora dedit fluvio, fluvio ora cruenta secundo, Lesbiacumque rapax ad litus detulit Hebrus.
eheu, perpetuis quid pastoralia curis incompta exercere iuvat despectaque pensa?
quid fida ingratam meditemur harundine musam?
nonne fuit satius vulgi de more sub umbra seu temptare iocis Amaryllida, sive Neaerae nugari cum crine comisque illudere plexis?
gloria calcar habet (versatque ille ultimus error excellentem animum), stimulet quod vivida corda spernere delicias et duros degere soles.
cum tamen optato speramus posse potiri munere et ad claram subito iam emergere lucem, caeca venit furia atque invisa forfice vitae tenuia fila secat: 'sed laudem non tamen illa,' sic Phoebus contra, ac tremulas simul attigit aures.

XXVIII.

Quid fles, cara, manus quod tam cito victa dedisti?
vilis ob hoc non es, non mihi (crede) procax.
diverse iaculatur Amor: modo radit harundo, corque subit repens virus obestque diu:
nunc pulchre pinnata recensque a cote medullam figit et accenso sanguine cuncta rapit.
quando heroes erant et amabant dique deaeque, impetus unus erat cernere, velle, frui.
ut semel Idaeis Anchisen arsit in umbris, rere deam lentas opposuisse moras?
Luna soporatos si tangere nollet amores, invida lux somnis, a, daret orta fugam.

Hero erblickte Leandern am lauten fest, und behende stürzte der liebende sich heisz in die nächtliche fluth.
Rhea Sylvia wandelt, die fürstliche jungfrau, der Tiber wasser zu schöpfen hinab, und sie ergreifet der gott.
so erzeugte die söhne sich Mars, die zwillinge tränket eine wölfin, und Rom nennt sich die fürstin der welt.

To be, or not to be? that is the question:
whether 'tis nobler in the mind to suffer
the slings and arrows of outrageous fortune, or to take arms against a sea of troubles
and by opposing end them? to die, to sleep,
no more; and by a sleep to say we end
the heart-ache and the thousand natural shocks that flesh is heir to, 'tis a consummation devoutly to be wished. to die, to sleep,
to sleep, perchance to dream: ay, there's the rub;
for in that sleep of death what dreams may come when we have shuffled off this mortal coil, must give us pause: there's the respect that makes calamity of so long life;
for who would bear the whips and scorns of time,
the oppressor's wrong, the proud man's contumely,
the pangs of despised love, the law's delay,
the insolence of office and the spurns that patient merit of the unworthy takes,
when he himself might his quietus make

in strepitu festo Leandrum adspexerat Hero:
se nocturna calens in freta iecit amans.
haustura ad Tiberim devenit, regia virgo, raptaque succubuit Silvia Rea deo;
stirps sata Mavorti, geminis lupa praebuit uber, Romaque victricem se vocat orbis eram.

He that loves a rosy cheek,
or a coral lip admires,
or from star-like eyes doth seek fuel to maintain his fires,
as old Time makes these decay,
so his flames must waste away.
But a smooth and stedfast mind,
gentle thoughts and calm desires,
hearts with equal love combined,

pergimus aerumnis affectum porro agere aevum.
quis ludibria enim atque aetatis verbera ferret, quisve superborum fastidia vimve potentum iustitiaeve moras, quis spreti vulnus amoris lictorisve supercilium aut indigna malorum facta quibus vexant summissos inque merentes, ense mero tabulas cum conficere ipse potesset?
quis grave onus fessae vitai pertoleraret cum grunnitibus ac multis sudoribus aegris, ni metus ille, aliquid nobis ne in morte ferat fors, inque reperta loci ratio, a cuius fine viator nemo usquam remigrat, perculsum distraheret cor?
ergo damna pati praesentia malumus ista quam nobis nova perfugium atque incognita habere.
haec animus versans timidos nos efficit omnes, nativusque colos ac strenua vis animai tabescunt aegrae palloribus oblita curae;
coeptaque persaepe egregia et molimine magno declinant sese pravos rationibus istis
in cursus, ea quae fuerant iam indigna cluere.

XXXI.

Cui facies cordi roseos imitata colores,
labrave curalii tincta rubore placent,
quive relucentes ceu sidera quaerit ocellos, hausurus flammis inde alimenta suis, tempus ut haec longo facit ipsa senescere cursu, dilapsus simul his ardor amantis abit.
sed placidum pectus, sed castigata cupido,
sed mens si praestost aequa potensque sui, cordaque iuncta pari communis foedere amoris,

kindle never dying fires.
where these are not, I despise lovely cheeks or lips or eyes.
No tears, Celia, now shall win
my resolved heart to return;
I have searched thy soul within
and find nought but pride and scorn;
I have learned thy arts, and now can disdain as much as thou.
some power in my revenge convey that love to her I cast away.

XXXII.

Never did passenger in summer's heat
more thirst for drink than she for this good turn.
her help she sees, but help she cannot get;
she bathes in water, yet her fire must burn:
'o, pity' 'gan she cry, 'flint-hearted boy!
'tis but a kiss I beg; why art thou coy?
I have been wooed, as I entreat thee now,
even by the stern and direful god of war,
whose sinewy neck in battle ne'er did bow,
who conquers where he comes in every jar;
yet hath he been my captive and my slave and begged for that which thou unasked shalt have.
thus he that overruled I overswayed,
leading him prisoner in a red-rose chain:
strong-tempered steel his stronger strength obeyed,
yet was he servile to my coy disdain.
o, be not proud nor brag not of thy might,
for mastering her that foiled the god of fight!'

his facis accensae flamma perennis erit.
haec absunt? nil pulchra placent mihi lumina, curo labra nihil, nullo sunt in honore genae.
Caelia, nequiquam lacrimae volvuntur inanes, obdurat mea mens, nec revocare potes;
cordis enim penetrale tui scrutabar, et intus nil nisi ludibrium, nil nisi fastus erat.
ipse tuas artes didici, fastidia qui nunc tanta tibi possim reddere, quanta tuli.
efficias, aliquod numen, meus ultor, ut illam, qualis hic abicitur nunc mihi, prendat amor.

XXXII.

Quam sitit aestivo laticem sub sole viator, exoptatum illud tam dea munus avet.
cernit opem praesto nec opem tamen invenit ullam,
se lavit in gelida, sed furit ignis, aqua.
'o miserere' loqui sic infit, 'ego oscula quaero sola; puer saxo saepte cor, ista negas?
quod supplex ego te, cupidus me saepe poposcit Mars immitis atrox qui fera bella regit.
hostica cervices flectit vis nulla torosas, quaecumque ingreditur proelia, victor abit;
ferre iugum tamen ille meum, mea vincla, coactus,
quam tibi praestabo sponte, rogavit opem.
sic supero qui cuncta domat deus, ipsaque ducit captivum rubris nexa catena rosis;
cuius et eduris parent durissima nervis aera, meis morem fastibus ille gerit.
parce superbire et validas ostendere vires, me tibi, dante mihi Bellipotente manus.'

XXXIII.

Quando fui desto innanzi la dimane,
pianger senti' fra il sonno i miei figliuoli,
ch' eran con meco, e domandar del pane.
Ben se' crudel, se tu già non ti duoli, pensando ciò ch' il mio cor s' annunziava:
e se non piangi, di che pianger suoli?
Già eran desti, e l' ora s' appressava che il cibo ne soleva essere addotto,
e per suo sogno ciascun dubitava:
Ed io sentii chiavar l' uscio di sotto
all' orribile torre; ond' io guardai nel viso a' miei figliuoli senza far motto.
Io non piangeva, sì dentro impietrai:
piangevan elli; ed Anselmuccio mio disse 'tu guardi sì, padre, che hai?' Però non lagrimai, nè rispos' io tutto quel giorno, nè la notte appresso, infin che l' altro sol nel mondo uscîo.
Come un poco di raggio si fu messo nel doloroso carcere, ed io scorsi per quattro visi il mio aspetto stesso, Ambo le man per lo dolor mi morsi.
ed ei, pensando ch' io 'l fessi per voglia di manicar, di subito levorsi, E disser 'padre, assai ci fia men doglia, se tu mangi di noi: tu ne vestisti queste misere carni, e tu le spoglia.
Queta' mi allor per non farli più tristi:
lo dì e l' altro stemmo tutti muti:
ahi dura terra, perchè non t' apristi?
Posciachè fummo al quarto dì venuti,

XXXIII.

Experrectus eram, necdum lux orta rubebat,
cum gemere in somnis pueros ac poscere panem audivi, qui mecum aderant. crudelia vere corda geris, si, quod praesaga mente videbam, flere negas; quid flebis enim, hoc si flere negabis?
iamque experrectis aderat consueta parandi hora cibi, tulerantque metum sua somnia cuique, appositis inferne seris ubi ianua turris horrendae resonare: inhiabam dicere mussans gnatorum in facies, nec flebam flentibus illis, sic ire in lapidem mihi viscera. mox ita noster
'qui vultus! pater, ecquid habes?' Anselmulus infit.
interea totumque diem noctemque secutam nec potui lacrimare nec ullas reddere voces, dum supra terras alter sol protulit orbem.
postquam intromissum loca carceris horrida circum
est exile iubar, per quattuor ora videbam quale foret nostrum, victusque doloribus ambas mordebam ipse manus. ego amore videbar edendi talia moliri: consurrexere repente, et 'minus hinc' aiunt, 'pater, anges, vescere nobis;
qui miseram hanc nobis carnem induit, exuat idem.'
tum tranquillus eram neque eos angore volebam contristare novo; cunctisque tacentibus ibat ille dies alterque; heu, quid non, dura, dehiscis, terra, mihi? post lux ubi quarta induxerat ortus, proiecit toto ante pedes se corpore Gattus,

Gaddo mi si gittò disteso a' piedi, dicendo 'padre mio, che non m' aiuti?' Quivi morì; e come tu mi vedi, vid' io cascar li tre ad uno ad uno tra il quinto dì e il sesto: ond' io mi diedi Già cieco a brancolar sopra ciascuno,
e tre dì li chiamai poi che fur morti:
poscia, più che il dolor, potè il digiuno.

XXXIV.

To whom replied King Arthur much in wrath
'ah, miserable and unkind, untrue, unknightly, traitor-hearted! woe is me!
authority forgets a dying king, laid widowed of the power in his eye that bowed the will. I see thee what thou art.
for thou the latest left of all my knights,
in whom should meet the offices of all,
thou wouldst betray me for the precious hilt either from lust of gold or like a girl valuing the giddy pleasure of the eyes.
yet, for a man may fail in duty twice,
and the third time may prosper, get thee hence;
but if thou spare to fling Excalibur,
I will arise and slay thee with my hands.'

XXXV.

Our deeds still travel with us from afar,
and what we have been makes us what we are.

'o pater,' exclamans 'quid opem mihi ferre recusas?'
sic moritur: qualemque vides me, tres ego vidi nunc hunc nunc illum procumbere singillatim ante iubar sextum, quintam post lampada solis.
tum palpare manu iam caecus corpora cuique tresque accire dies perstabam morte iacentes:
plus tandem luctu potuit ieiuna cupido.

Quocumque ire libet, quae fecimus usque secuntur,

XXXVI.

Like a star of heaven
in the broad daylight
thou art unseen, but yet I hear thy shrill delight.
Keen as are the arrows
of that silver sphere,
whose intense lamp narrows
in the white dawn clear, until we hardly see, we feel that it is there.
All the earth and air
with thy voice is loud,
as, when night is bare,
from one lonely cloud
the moon rains out her beams,
and heaven is overflowed.

XXXVII.

Ye banks and braes and streams around the castle o' Montgomery,
green be your woods and fair your flowers,
your waters never drumlie.
there simmer first unfauld her robes
and there the langest tarry;
for there I took the last fareweel
o' my sweet Highland Mary.
How sweetly bloomed the gay green birk,
how rich the hawthorn's blossom,
as underneath their fragrant shade
I clasped her to my bosom!

XXXVI.

Ut stella, visum fallis, in aethere cum lux diei plena recluditur, clarae sed exaudire possum delicias tamen usque vocis.
Argenteae sic spicula Cynthiae scindunt acutis ictibus aera, dum mane decrescat sub alba vivida fax tenuata luce:
Cernamus ut vix, interioribus haurire promptumst sensibus. ut sono tellusque circum fervet omnis
aeriaeque plagae canoro, Ceu nuda noctis cum facies patet, demittit una Cynthia fulgidos
e nube rores, et superni templa poli radiis redundant!

XXXVII.

Vos, iuga, vos clivi, vos qui praetexitis, amnes, Gomerii vestra moenia montis aqua,
sint virides silvae, pulcherrima copia florum,
et turpi numquam turbida lympha luto:
primum ibi purpureos aestas dispandat amictus,
atque ibi se teneat permaneatque diu, mecum ibi namque fuit vovitque novissima vota dulcis de patriis dicta puella iugis.
suaviter ut viridi risit betulla nitore!
floribus ut rubuit spinus amicta meris!
cum recubans illic sub odorae tegmine silvae pressabam gremio pectora fusa meo.

the golden hours on angel wings flew o'er me and my dearie;
for dear to me as light and life
was my sweet Highland Mary.
Wi' monie a vow and locked embrace our parting was fu' tender, and pledging aft to meet again
we tore oursels asunder.
but oh! fell death's untimely frost,
that nipt my flower sae early;
now green's the sod and cauld's the clay that wraps my Highland Mary.
O pale, pale now those rosy lips
I aft hae kissed sae fondly, and closed for aye the sparkling glance that dwelt on me sae kindly,
and mouldering now in silent dust that heart that lo'ed me dearly, but still within my bosom's core shall live my Highland Mary.

XXXVIII.

You ask me why though ill at ease
within this region I subsist, whose spirits fail within the mist
and languish for the purple seas.
It is the land that freemen till,
that sober-suited freedom chose;
the land, where girt with friends or foes
a man may speak the thing he will;

hora alia ex alia caelestibus aurea pinnis praeteriit volucri meque meamque fuga ;
namque meast ; ut amantur enim lux vitaque, amatast
dulcis de patriis dicta puella iugis.
tum data saepe fides, amplexibus haesimus artis, digressus tenero mollis amore fuit ;
multaque post promissa tamen divellimur aegre,
iurati dextris in reditumque datis.
omnia nequiquam ! mors frigore venit acerbo, admorsus cecidit flos meus ante diem.
nunc gelidum terrae viridi sub caespite tegmen gestat de patriis dicta puella iugis.
tincta rosa quondam, nunc pallida morte labella sunt, quotiens labris tacta labella meis !
quique mihi obtutu prius adridebat amico, fulgor ocellorum non recreandus hebet,
illud et in tacito tabescere pulvere pergit, plenum in me tanti quod cor amoris erat :
vivit adhuc vivetque tamen praecordia subter
intima de patriis dicta puella iugis.

XXXVIII.

Quaeris, perpetuo cur ita taedio enectus tamen hunc sustineam Iovem, cum desiderio purpurei maris
mens intra nebulas labet : Terram gens arat hanc libera, praetulit libertas modico sobria pallio ;
hic fidis pariter cinctus et invidis ausim quod libeat loqui ;

A land of settled government,
a land of just and old renown,
where freedom broadens slowly down
from precedent to precedent.
Where faction seldom gathers head,
but by degrees to fulness wrought,
the strength of some diffusive thought hath time and space to work and spread.
Should banded unions persecute opinion, and induce a time when single thought is civil crime and individual freedom mute, Though power should make from land to land
the name of Britain trebly great, though every channel in the state should almost choke with golden sand, Yet waft me from the harbour-mouth, wild wind, I seek a warmer sky,
and I will see before I die
the palms and temples of the south.

XXXIX.

He on his impious foes right onward drove,
gloomy as night: under his burning wheels
the stedfast empyrean shook throughout, all but the throne itself of God. full soon
among them he arrived, in his right hand grasping ten thousand thunders, which he sent before him, such as in their souls infixed plagues. they astonished all resistance lost,

Has ius compositum mosque regit plagas antiquis merito laudibus inclitas, exemplumque novo sensim adhibens vetus libertas patet amplior.
Raro firmat opes prava sodalitas, sed rectus populum sensus ut imbuit paulatim, spatium nactus idoneum

Quid si vocem animi prosequitur ream coniurata cohors, temporaque ingerit, cum sentire secus laedere publicumst et ius cuique suum tacet?
Ter munita opibus fama Britanniae

Protinus incestos it nigrae noctis in hostes instar habens; caeli stabilis flammantia templa nutant tota rotis subter ferventibus, ipsa sede Dei tamen excepta. iamque ocius illis prensat agens ante atque infigit corde sub alto pestes. attoniti cessant obsistere, cessat robur et e manibus procumbunt irrita tela.

all courage; down their idle weapons dropt.
o'er shields and helms and helmed heads he rode of thrones and mighty seraphim prostrate,
that wished the mountains now might be again thrown on them as a shelter from his ire.
nor less on either side tempestuous fell his arrows from the fourfold-visaged Four distinct with eyes, and from the living wheels distinct alike with multitude of eyes.
one spirit in them ruled, and every eye glared lightning and shot forth pernicious fire among the accursed, that withered all their strength and of their wonted vigour left them drained, exhausted, spiritless, afflicted, fallen.
yet half his strength he put not forth, but checked his thunder in mid volley; for he meant not to destroy, but root them out of heaven.
the overthrown he raised, and as a herd of goats or timorous flock together thronged, drove them before him thunderstruck, pursued with terrors and with furies to the bounds and crystal wall of heaven, which opening wide rolled inward and a spacious gap disclosed into the wasteful deep. the monstrous sight struck them with horror backward, but far worse urged them behind; headlong themselves they threw down from the verge of heaven: eternal wrath burnt after them to the bottomless pit.
Hell heard the insufferable noise, Hell saw Heaven ruining from Heaven, and would have fled affrighted, but strict fate had cast too deep her dark foundations and too fast had bound.

scuta supra, supra galeas galeataque regum magnorumque ducum pergit capita ire iacentum.
quam vellent iterum montes, tutamen ab ira, insuper imponi! nec setius imber utraque parte sagittarum descendit turbinis instar quattuor e formis gestantibus ora quaterna, quaeque oculis distincta suis, distinctaque crebris quaeque oculis rota viva modo iaculatur eodem.
sed cunctos mens una regit, sed fulguris omnes stant oculi flammis, unde exitiabilis ignis emicat invadens sceleratorum agmina, quorum vis exusta perit, solitus vigor ossa reliquit, fitque exhausta, exspes, afflicta abiectaque turba.
sed neque dimidias vires exercet et ignem lapsu inhibet medio, neque enim tam exscindere gentem, quam caelo voluit radicitus eruere omnem.
eversos levat ipse, gregisque ex more coacti caprarum timidive ovium fugat ignibus ante afflatos, dum pone metus diraeque secuntur ad fines usque et pellucida moenia caeli.
illa patent late atque in se revoluta lacunam ingenti spatio pandunt ad inane profundum.
visum excussit atrox retrorsum horrore, sed ursit terga tamen longe peius: de margine caeli dant se praecipites; ast ira aeterna flagravit ad cassum fundo post illos usque barathrum.
importunum Orcus strepitum audiit, Orcus ab aethra praecipitantem aethram vidit, pavidusque dedisset ipse fugam, ni caeca tenax fundamina fatum iecisset nimium alta et idem nimium arta ligasset.

nine days they fell. confounded Chaos roared and felt tenfold confusion in their fall through his wild anarchy; so huge a rout encumbered him with ruin. Hell at last yawning received them whole and on them closed, Hell their fit habitation, fraught with fire unquenchable, the house of woe and pain.

XL.

Immediately a place
before his eyes appeared, sad, noisome, dark,
a lazar-house it seemed, wherein were laid numbers of all diseased, all maladies of ghastly spasm or racking torture, qualms of heartsick agony, all feverous kinds, convulsions, epilepsies, fierce catarrhs,
intestine stone and ulcer, colic pangs, demoniac phrenzy, moping melancholy
and moonstruck madness, pining atrophy, marasmus and wide-wasting pestilence,
dropsies and asthmas and joint-racking rheums.
dire was the tossing, deep the groans: despair tended the sick busiest from couch to couch;
and over them triumphant death his dart shook, but delayed to strike, though oft invoked with vows as their chief good and final hope.

ternos ter cecidere dies; mugire ruina attonitum Chaos omne decemgeminosque tumultus per molem sentire rudem atque informia regna, tantae cladis erat violenta strage gravatum.
tandem Erebus facto integros accepit hiatu,
his Erebus domus apta, supraque inclusit: ibi ignis ardet inextinctus stabulantque et luctus et angor.

XL.

Continuo ante oculos tristi caligine taeter incipit apparere locus, qui peste laborant, hospitio similis: vis intus magna cubabat aegrorum omne genus; tum spasmi, quisquis ubiquest, liventes aderant, aderant lacerantia nervos tormenta aegrotumque angens cor nausea turpis, tum febres grex innumerus, convulsaque membra aut morbo prostrata sacro, tum saeva gravedo et lapis intestinus et ulcera verminaque alvi, infernusque furor nigraeque amentia bilis
de lunaque incussa insania, lentaque tabes et macies lateque lues circum omnia vastans, atque hydrops atque aeger anhelitus et malus umor artus discrucians. iactabant corpora multi,
horrendum, ex altove gemebant pectore; et aegros visebat per cuncta cubilia, sedulus unus, exspes angor: ovans super illis tela vibrabat mors, mactare tamen, quamvis spes ultima, summum saepe vocata bonum votisque accita, moratur.

XLI.

Absent or dead, still let a friend be dear:
a sigh the absent claims, the dead a tear:
recall those nights that closed thy toilsome days,
still hear thy Parnell in his living lays,
who, careless now of interest, fame or fate,
perhaps forgets that Oxford e'er was great;
or, deeming meanest what we greatest call,
beholds thee glorious only in thy fall.
and sure, if aught below the seats divine can touch immortals, 'tis a soul like thine,
a soul supreme, in each hard instance tried,
above all pain, all passion and all pride,
the rage of power, the blast of public breath,
the lust of lucre and the dread of death.
in vain to deserts thy retreat is made;
the muse attends thee to thy silent shade:
'tis hers, the brave man's latest steps to trace,
rejudge his acts, and dignify disgrace.
when interest calls off all her sneaking train,
and all the obliged desert and all the vain,
she waits or to the scaffold or the cell,
when the last lingering friend has bid farewell.

XLII.

Tell me not, sweet, I am unkind, that from the nunnery of thy chaste breast and quiet mind to war and arms I fly.
True, a new mistress now I chase, the first foe in the field, and with a stronger faith embrace a sword, a horse, a shield.
Yet this inconstancy is such as thou too shalt adore:
I could not love thee, dear, so much, loved I not honour more.

XLI.

Mortuus est, an amicus abest? hic ametur et ille,
hic gemitum, lacrimam vindicat ille sibi:
fac referas noctes operosis lucibus actis, proque tuo vivum vate loquatur opus.
ipse lucrum, famam, fatum nunc despicit et vix imperii forsan vult meminisse tui;
infima forsan habet quae summa vocamus, et illo iudice ab hoc casu gloria tota venit.
et siquid superos caelestia limina subter
tangere, vis animi quam geris ista potest, ista invicta manens, exercita rebus acerbis;
nec dolor hanc neque amor nec movet ullus honos;
non rabies regni, popularis anhelitus aurae,
turpe lucrum, mortis non domat ipse timor.
nequiquam deserta petis loca: pergit in umbram musa silescentem subsequiturque comes.
illius est suprema sequi vestigia fortis,
acta recognoscit, crimina laude beat;
voce coacta lucri cum sordida turba refugit, donatique omnes et levis omnis abest,
stat prope carnificem, subit ipsum ad robur, ubi haerens iam comes extremus dixerit ipse 'vale'.

XLII.

Cara, quid incusas, placidae cur mentis asylo et casto profugus pectore castra sequar?
hostis obit nova flamma, acie qui primus, et ensem
parmam amplector equum vel potiore fide.
at tibi adorandast haec inconstantia: quod te carior est pietas, tu mihi cara magis.

XLIII.

Bannocks o' bear meal,
bannocks o' barley;
here's to the Highlandman's
bannocks o' barley!
wha in a brulzie
will first cry a parley?
never the lads wi'
the bannocks o' barley.
Bannocks o' bear meal,
bannocks o' barley;
here's to the lads wi'
the bannocks o' barley!
wha in his wae days
were loyal to Charlie?
wha but the lads wi'
the bannocks o' barley?

XLIV.

As once the lion honey gave,
out of the strong such sweetness came,
a royal hero no less brave produced this sweet, this lovely dame.
To her the Prince, that did oppose such mighty armies in the field and Holland from prevailing foes could so well free, himself does yield.
Not Belgia's fleet, his high command,
which triumphs where the sun does rise,
nor all the force he leads by land could guard him from her conquering eyes.

XLIII.

Montana pubes hordeaceum panem amat: propino hoc hordeaceo pani.
cum dimicatur, quis prior manus dedet?
non, pane quae gens hordeaceo gaudet.
pani propino hoc, hordeaceo pani, quibusque panis hordeaceus cordi.
quis luctuoso mansit exuli fidus?
quis?—pane quae gens hordeaceo gaudet.

(2). Farinae amator hordeaceae, tui
dabo, tuique panis hordeacei.
quis inter arma pernegat manus dare?
amator ille panis hordeacei.
farinae amator hordeaceae, tui
dabo, tuique panis hordeacei.
quis exuli fidelis in malis fuit?
amator ille panis hordeacei.

XLIV.

Traditur ut quondam—tantae dulcedinis auctor fortis erat—de se mella dedisse leo, regius en heros dulcem spirantis amorem,
par virtute, sator virginis huius erat.
qui potuit tantis contra legionibus ire atque acie Batavos asseruisse suos, pellere praevalidum qui tam bene noverat hostem,
dat Princeps victas huic minor ipse manus.
Belgica non classis, cuius caput ille supremum, quaeque triumphatrix sol ubi surgit adest, debellatores oculos neque sistere terra milia sub signis tot potuere virum.

Orange with youth experience has,
in action young, in council old;
Orange is what Augustus was,
brave, wary, provident and bold.
On that fair tree which bears his name blossom and fruit at once are found:
in him we all admire the same,
his flowery youth with wisdom crowned.
Empire and freedom reconciled
in Holland are by great Nassaw:
like those he sprung from, just and mild,
to willing people he gives law.
Thrice happy pair, so near allied in royal blood and virtue too, now Love has you together tied,
may none this triple knot undo!

XLV.

Hark, how the traitor wind doth court
the sailors to the main,
to make their avarice his sport:
a tempest checks the fond disdain,
they bear a safe tho' humble port.
We'll sit, my love, upon the shore and, while proud billows rise to war against the sky, speak o'er our love's so sacred mysteries,
and charm the sea to th' calm it had before.
Where's now my pride to extend my fame wherever statues are,
and purchase glory to my name
in the smooth court or rugged war?
my love hath laid the devil, I am tame.

corpore cum vegeto quanta experientia mentis!
rebus agit iuvenem dux, ratione senem.
strenuus est idemque vafer: dux providus audax, Augustus Caesar quod fuit ante, refert.
pulchra viri quae nomen habet, simul arbore in illa et florum et fructus inveniuntur opes;
inque ipso miramur idem: sapientia circum
aetatis flori fusa corona sedet.
imperio Batavi cum libertate fruuntur:
per magnum coeunt haec inimica ducem.
iustus is et clemens populo dat iura volenti, aequiperatque illos, est quibus ortus, avos.
ter fortunati! sanguis quos regius arta quosque simul virtus compede vestra ligat, tertia nunc quoniam vos copula iunxit amoris,
hunc triplicem nodum solvere nemo velit!

XLV.

Audin ut alliciens male fidus in aequora nautas quaerat avaritiam ludificare notus?
mox ubi tempestas fastidia vana coercet,
quemlibet in portum, sit modo tutus, eunt.
litore considens mecum quin, cara, recenses sacra quot exhibeat mystica noster amor, fluctibus ut quamvis petulantibus aethera temptet,
tranquillo sileat rursus, ut ante, salum?
quo mihi mercari decus atque extendere famam,
signa quibus ponant aerea cumque locis?
seu molles aulae sive horrida castra vocabunt, pacarit furias ambitionis amor.

I'd rather like the violet grow unmarked i' th' shaded vale, than on the hill those terrors know are breathed forth by an angry gale:
there is more pomp above, more sweet below.
Love, thou divine philosopher, while covetous landlords rent,
and courtiers dignity prefer,
instructs us to a sweet content;
greatness itself doth in itself inter.
Castara, what is there above
the treasures we possess?
we two are all and one, we move
like stars in the orb of happiness.
all blessings are epitomised in love.

XLVI.

Her arms across her breast she laid,
she was more fair than words can say:
barefooted came the beggar maid
before the king Cophetua.
In robe and crown the king stept down to meet and greet her on her way.
'it is no wonder' said the lords,
'she is more beautiful than day.'
As shines the moon in clouded skies,
she in her poor attire was seen:
one praised her ancles, one her eyes,
one her dark hair and lovesome mien:
So sweet a face, such angel grace in all that land had never been.
Cophetua swore a royal oath,
this beggar maid shall be my queen.

ut viola, in tecta malim convalle latenter crescere, quam trepidas per iuga nosse minas, saeva noti quas ira vomit: loca possidet alta splendor, habet felix inferiora quies.
immortale sapis: fundi possessor avarus poscit opes, titulos ambitiosus avet;
nos, amor, instituis felices vivere parvo, gloriaque imperii fit cinis ipse suus.
quid superat quod habemus opum? duo, Cynthia, quamquam, nos tamen inter nos unus et omne sumus,
nos per inoffensum ceu sidera labimur orbem:
summatim dat amor quidquid ubique bonist.

XLVI.

Ibat ut ambabus positis ad pectora palmis, pulchra supra quam vox ulla referre potest,
nuda pedes, mendica, suis opis indiga rebus, Cophetua coram rege puella venit.
destituit solium rex murice clarus et auro itque salutatum quae prope carpit iter;
'nec mirum' dixere duces: 'pulcherrima quamvis alma dies, alma pulchrior illa die.'
qualis in obducto sublucet Cynthia caelo, veste sub obscura cernere talis erat;
virginis hic suras laudavit, et alter ocellos,
ille nigros crines osque cupidineum;
dulcis enim facies divinaque gratia formae,
qualis in his numquam finibus ante fuit.
Cophetuas iurat sceptrum testatus et orbem
'uxor ea ex inopi virgine regis erit.'

XLVII.

How hath the oppressor ceased! the golden city ceased! the Lord hath broken the staff of the wicked and the sceptre of the rulers. he who smote the people in wrath with a continual stroke, he that ruled the nations in anger, is persecuted and none hindereth. the whole earth is at rest and is quiet, they break forth into singing. yea, the fir trees rejoice at thee and the cedars of Lebanon, saying 'since thou art laid down, no feller is come up against us.' Hell from beneath is moved for thee to meet thee at thy coming: it stirreth up the dead for thee, even all the chief ones of the earth; it hath raised up from their thrones all the kings of the nations. all they shall speak and say unto thee 'art thou also become weak as we? art thou become like unto us?'. thy pomp is brought down to the grave, and the noise of thy viols: the worm is spread under thee, and the worms cover thee. how art thou fallen from heaven, o Lucifer, son of the morning! how art thou cut down to the ground, which didst weaken the nations! for thou hast said in thine heart 'I will ascend into heaven, I will exalt my throne above the stars of God; I will sit also upon the mount of the congregation, in the sides of the north; I will ascend above the heights of the clouds, I will be like the most High.' yet thou shalt be brought down to hell, to the sides of the pit. they that see thee shall narrowly look upon thee and consider thee, saying 'is this the man that made the earth to tremble, that did shake kingdoms; that made the world as a wilderness, and destroyed the cities thereof; that opened not the house of his prisoners?'.

XLVII.

Quam domitor terrae, quam finem urbs aurea nactast!
ipse profanorum fasces rerumque potentum fregit sceptra Deus. populos qui contudit ira, qui domuit gentes, aeterno verbere vexans, vindice dat poenas nullo. passim otia tellus tranquillo peragit, prorumpunt carmina passim.
ipsa adeo picea et Libani tibi filia cedrus irridet: 'tali postquam consternere casu, nulla in nos molitur' ait 'iam dextra bipennem.'
se movet infernus teque obvius excipit Orcus

sollicitat, reges cunctos rerumque potentes deturbans soliis. omnes uno ore loquentur
'tune etiam tenuem, ceu nos, mutaris in umbram, consimilis factus nobis?'. tua pompa sepulcrum cum fremitu citharārum adiit, vermesque ministrant strata tori subter, supra tibi vermis amictum.
Lucifer, o quali, suboles Eoa, ruina lapsus es a caelo, terram succisus ad ipsam, qui gentes pessum ante dabas! nam talia dixti corde tuo 'caelum aggressus super ardua ponam astra Dei solium, clivoque, ubi vergit ad Arcton, quo populus coit, insidens ego nubila ponam sub pedibus, regis regum aemulus ipse supremi.'
sic ais; at tradere tamen sub tartara leti,
at barathri sub claustra, at qui te cumque videbit, figet is obtutum atque aciem contendet acutam, sic effatus 'hic est qui vir tremefecerat orbem

all the kings of the nations, even all of them, lie in glory, every one in his own house. but thou art cast out of thy grave like an abominable branch, and as the raiment of those that are slain, thrust through with a sword, that go down to the stones of the pit, as a carcase trodden under feet. thou shalt not be joined with them in burial, because thou hast destroyed thy land and slain thy people: the seed of evildoers shall never be renowned.

XLVIII.

Come, pensive Nun, devout and pure, sober, stedfast and demure,
all in a robe of darkest grain flowing with majestick train, and sable stole of cypress lawn
over thy decent shoulders drawn.
come, but keep thy wonted state with even step and musing gait, and looks commercing with the skies
thy rapt soul sitting in thine eyes.
there held in holy passion still forget thyself to marble, till et reserare fores nolebat carcere clausis?'.

quicumque imperio gentes rexere tyranni, quisque suis recubant in sedibus, incluta turba.

with a sad leaden downward cast thou fix them on the earth as fast.
and bring with thee calm Peace and Quiet, spare Fast that oft with gods doth diet,
and hears the muses in a ring
aye round about Jove's altar sing.
and add to these retired Leisure

but first and chiefest with thee bring him that yon soars on golden wing, guiding the fiery-wheeled throne,
the cherub Contemplation.

XLIX.

The winds are high on Helle's wave,
as on that night of stormy water,
when love who sent forgot to save the young, the beautiful, the brave,
the lonely hope of Sestos' daughter.
oh, when at night along the sky
her turret-torch was blazing high, though rising gale and breaking foam
and shrieking sea-birds warned him home,
and clouds aloft and tides below
with signs and sounds forbade to go,
he could not see, he would not hear tristis intueare.

Paxque blanda, Quies, simulque Abstinentia eat tenax, caelitum hospita quae frequens

Adice his latebras amans otium quod in hortulis
elegantibus ambulat:
prima sed tamen adsit o,
sed potissima tecum,
Quae per aethera pinnulis
ecce tollitur aureis,
igneo solium rotans

XLIX.

Aura super fluctus Helles furit acris, ut illa nocte procellosas saeviit inter aquas, misit ubi iuvenem, quamvis servare per undas quem iuvenem misit non meminisset amor.
et tamen ille annis formaque animisque vigebat, spes desolatae Sestidos una nurus.
o ubi de turri flagrabat in aethera noctu taeda puellaris, saeviat aura licet, spumescat licet unda salo, volucresque marinae raucisonis iubeant questibus ire domum, desuper et nubes, infra licet aestus aquarum mille vetet signis pergere, mille sonis, nec spectare potest nec vult audire sonosve or sound or sign foreboding fear;

his eye but saw that light of love,
the only star it hailed above;
his ear but rang with Hero's song,
'ye waves, divide not lovers long.'
that tale is old, but love anew
may nerve young hearts to prove as true.

While virgin spring by Eden's flood unfolds her tender mantle green, or pranks the sod in frolic mood,
or tunes Eolian strains between:
While summer with a matron grace retreats to Dryburgh's cooling shade, yet oft delighted stops to trace
the progress of the spikey blade:
While autumn benefactor kind by Tweed erects his aged head and sees with self-approving mind each creature on his bounty fed:
While maniac winter rages o'er
the hills whence classic Yarrow flows, rousing the turbid torrent's roar
or sweeping, wild, a waste of snows:
So long, sweet poet of the year,
shall bloom that wreath thou well hast won,
while Scotia with exulting tear proclaims that Thomson is her son.

signave venturos vaticinata metus,
nil oculis usquam nisi fax ea lucet amoris,
stellarum supero cognita sola polo,
non nisi vox Herus tonat auribus 'unda, fideles invida nolito dissociare diu.'
quod memoro vetus est, sed amor iuvenalia forsan roboret ad talem nunc quoque corda fidem.

L.

Virgineus dum veris honor viridantis amictus pandet ad Edenii flumina molle decus, aut festivus humum variabit, et aelinon auris interdum Aeoliis emodulatus erit:
dumque aestas matrona decens captanda sub umbris frigora deveniet, Durioburge, tuis, saepe tamen laetans sistet, segetisque notabit herba teres quantas polliceatur opes:
dum bona diffundens autumnus munera surget grandaevo Tevidae vertice propter aquas, atque hilari cum corde animalia cuncta videbit,
copia quam dederit pascat ut omne genus:
donec hiemps vaesana iugis bacchabitur illis unde Heliconiasin cognita Girva fluit, nunc acuens lutei torrentis murmura, verrens stragem indigestae mox furibunda nivis:
perpetuo, vates anni numerose, virebunt quae bene promeritus laurea serta geris, Scotiaque intererit lacrimaque insignis ovanti edicet subolem Tityron esse suam.

LI.

Farewell, too little and too lately known,
whom I began to think and call my own:
for sure our souls were near allied, and thine cast in the same poetic mould as mine.
one common note on either lyre did strike,
and knaves and fools we both abhorred alike.
to the same goal did both our studies drive:
the last set out the soonest did arrive.
thus Nisus fell upon the slippery place,
whilst his young friend performed and won the race.
o early ripe! to thy abundant store
what could advancing age have added more?
it might (what nature never gives the young)
have taught the numbers of thy native tongue.
but satire needs not those, and wit will shine
through the harsh cadence of a rugged line.
a noble error and but seldom made,
when poets are by too much force betrayed.
thy generous fruits, though gathered ere their prime,
still showed a quickness; and maturing time but mellows what we write to the dull sweets of rhyme.
once more hail and farewell, farewell, thou young,
but ah! too short Marcellus of our tongue,
thy brows with ivy and with laurels bound;
but fate and gloomy night encompass thee around.

Kendal is dead, and Cambridge riding post:
what fitter sacrifice for Denham's ghost?

LI.

Nec satis et sero mihi cognite, quemque parabam ducere iam nostrum, iam perhibere, vale.
affines animae certe, atque exemplar ad unum ficta tuast musae pollice, ficta meast;
pectine communi lyra tacta ambobus, idemque sontis utrique odiumst, insipientis idem;
meta eadem studiis; potitur tamen alter, ut esset serior emissus carcere, calce prior:
sic postquam cecidit Nisus per lubrica, cursu confecto iuvenis victor amicus erat.
ingenium praecox! tibi copia tanta, quid aetas addere plus poterat progrediente fuga?
illa tuae poterat numeros tibi tradere linguae:
natura hos iuveni semper avara negat:
sed satirae nil levor opus, praeclaraque sensus
e male tornato carmine vena nitet.
nobile peccatum raroque parabile, vates vi nimia quotiens proditur ipse sua.
ante diem egregii fructus cecidere, sed isdem contigerat velox iam sapor ante diem.
maturante licet fiat quod scribimus aevo dulcius; at suci vividioris eget.
rursus have rursumque vale, sermonis aviti qui Marcellus eras, sed breve tempus eras, nunc hederae laurique coma tua tempora vinctus;
parca sed et circum nox volat atra caput.

Reginae satiabitur umbra.

LIII.

Swifter far than summer's flight,
swifter far than youth's delight, swifter far than happy night,
art thou come and gone.
as the wood when leaves are shed,
as the night when sleep is sped,
as the heart when joy is fled,
I am left lone, alone.
The swallow summer comes again,
the owlet night resumes his reign,
but the wild swan youth is fain
to fly with thee, false as thou.
my heart each day desires the morrow,
sleep itself is turned to sorrow, vainly would my winter borrow sunny leaves from any bough.
Lilies for a bridal bed,
roses for a matron's head, violets for a maiden dead, pansies let my flowers be:
on the living grave I bear scatter them without a tear,
let no friend, however dear,
waste one hope, one fear for me.

LIV.

Pass on triumphant in thy glorious way, till thou hast reacht the place assigned: we may without disturbing the harmonious spheres bathe here below thy memory in our tears.

sola queror mecum, te sine sola queror.
ipsius aestivae redit instar hirundinis aestas, parque suae regnum nox reprehendit avi;
cycnus at indomitus, tecum cupit ire iuventas falsaque, false, fuga te comitare tua.
quotquot eunt luces, ego crastina corde requiro, sopitaeque gravis cura fit ipse sopor, aestivas mea quaerit hiemps conamine vano quolibet a ramo conciliare comas.

At last the Doglas and the Persie met,
like two captains of might and main;
they swapt together till they both swat with swords that were of fine Myllan.
these worthy freckies for to fight thereto they were full fain, till the blood out of their basnets sprent,
as ever did hail or rain.
'hold thee, Persie,' said the Doglas
'and i' faith I shall thee bring where thou shalt have a yerl's wages of Jamy our Scottish king.
thou shalt have thy ransom free,
I hight thee hear this thing,
for the manfullest man yet art thou that ever I conquerd in field fighting.'
'nay then' said the lord Persie
'I told it thee beforne that I would never yielded be to no man of a woman born.'
with that there cam an arrow hastily forth of a mighty ane:
hit hath stricken the yerl Doglas
in at the breast bane.
thorough liver and lungs baith
the sharp arrow is gane, that never after in all his life days
he spake no words but ane, that was 'fight ye, my merry men, whiles ye may,
for my life days bin gane.'

the Persie leaned on his brand

he took the dead man by the hand and said 'wo is for thee!

Ae fond kiss, and then we sever;
ae fareweel, and then for ever.
deep in heart-wrung tears I'll pledge thee,
warring sighs and groans I'll wage thee.
who shall say that fortune grieves him,
while the star of hope she leaves him?
me, nae chearful twinkle lights me,
dark despair around benights me.
I'll ne'er blame my partial fancy, naething could resist my Nancy;
but to see her was to love her,
love but her, and love for ever.
had we never loved sae kindly,
had we never loved sae blindly,
never met—or never parted,
we had ne'er been broken-hearted.
Fare thee weel, thou first and fairest,
fare thee weel, thou best and dearest;
thine be ilka joy and treasure,
peace, enjoyment, love and pleasure.

Quin imus semel osculati amanter aeternumque vale semel profamur?
fletus ex animo meros propinem,
certatim regemens tibi ingementi.
fortunam male quis se habere dicet,
dum spem, mite, sibi relinquat, astrum?
me nullum recreat iubar, sed exspes circum nocte premor tenebricosa.
quare praeproperum cor arguatur?
contra obsistere nil valebat Annae, quam vidisse fuit perire in una,
una perpetuo perire amore.
si numquam tibi mique contigisset tam vementer amare et impotenter, si nusquam simul—aut fuisse semper, numquam nos male macerasset angor.
vale qua potiusve pulchriusve
nil est, nec melius magisque carum;
iucundissima quaeque et invidenda adsint, gaudia pax amor voluptas.

ae fond kiss, and then we sever;
ae fareweel, alas, for ever.
deep in heart-wrung tears I'll pledge thee,
warring sighs and groans I'll wage thee.

LVII.

For I dipt into the future
far as human eye could see,
saw the vision of the world
and all the wonder that would be,
saw the heavens fill with commerce,
argosies of magic sails,
pilots of the purple twilight dropping down with costly bales, heard the heavens fill with shouting,
and there rained a ghastly dew
from the nations' airy navies grappling in the central blue, far along the world-wide whisper
of the south wind rushing warm, with the standards of the peoples plunging through the thunder-storm;
till the war-drum throbbed no longer,
and the battle-flags were furled
in the parliament of man,
the federation of the world.

quin imus semel osculati amanter
aeternumque vale profamur, eheu!
fletus ex animo meros propinem,
certatim regemens tibi ingementi.

Deferre gazas desuper aureas,

Kennst du das land, wo die citronen blühn,
im dunkeln laub die goldorangen glühn,
ein sanfter wind vom blauen himmel weht,
die myrte still und hoch der lorbeer steht?
kennst du es wohl? dahin, dahin
möcht' ich mit dir, o mein geliebter, ziehn.
Kennst du das haus? auf säulen ruht sein dach,
es glänzt der saal, es schimmert das gemach, und marmorbilder stehn und sehn mich an
'was hat man dir, du armes kind, gethan?'
kennst du es wohl? dahin, dahin
möcht' ich mit dir, o mein beschützer, ziehn.
Kennst du den berg und seinen wolkensteg?
das maulthier sucht im nebel seinen weg,
in höhlen wohnt der drachen alte brut,
es stürzt der fels und über ihn die fluth.
kennst du ihn wohl? dahin, dahin geht unser weg; o vater, lasz uns ziehn.

Tellus nota tibist, florent ubi citrea poma, perque nigras rutilant aurea mala comas, caeruleo mollis qua spirat ab aethere ventus, statque silens myrtus celsaque laurus adest?
nota tibist ea forte? in eam, carissime, terram

nota tibi domus est? incumbunt tecta columnis, atria collucent, interiora micant, marmoreaeque astant mihi significantque figurae
'parva, quid est factum, quid, miseranda, tibi?'
nota tibist ea forte? in eam, fidissime, sedem ire velim celeri te comitata fuga.
est notus tibi mons? caligine callis amictus?
quaerere per nebulam mula laborat iter,

notus is est tibi forte? in eum, pater optime, nostra

R. Sol canit, et cecinit, ceu nunc, ab origine rerum, inter fraternos aemulus ille choros, praescriptamque sibi decurrens ordine certo fulminea peragit mobilitate viam.
haec animum viresque tuis dant visa ministris,
cum penitus nulli sint capienda tamen:
celsa nitent opera haec (quis enim comprendere possit?)
qualia primigeno, nunc quoque pulchra, die.

G. Et volucris volucri (quis enim comprendere possit?) terrea maiestas se levitate rotat:

es wechselt Paradieses-helle mit tiefer schauervoller nacht;
es schäumt das meer in breiten flüssen am tiefen grund der felsen auf, und fels und meer wird fortgerissen
in ewig schnellem sphärenlauf.

Michael. Und stürme brausen um die wette, vom meer aufs land, vom land aufs meer, und bilden wüthend eine kette
der tiefsten wirkung rings umher.
da flammt ein blitzendes verheeren dem pfade vor des donnerschlags;
doch deine boten, Herr, verehren

What is that which I should turn to, lighting upon days like these?
every door is barred with gold and opens but to golden keys;
every gate is thronged with suitors, all the markets overflow;
I have but an angry fancy: what is that which I should do?
I had been content to perish falling on the foeman's ground, when the ranks are rolled in vapour and the winds are laid with sound.
but the jingling of the guinea helps the hurt that Honour feels,
and the nations do but murmur, snarling at each other's heels.
can I but relive in sadness? I will turn that earlier page:
hide me from my deep emotion, o thou wondrous Mother-Age!
make me feel the wild pulsation that I felt before the strife, when I heard my days before me and the tumult of my life, yearning for the large excitement that the coming years would yield, eager-hearted as a boy, when first he leaves his father's field,
and at night along the dusky highway near and nearer drawn, sees in heaven the light of London flaring like a dreary dawn:
and his spirit leaps within him to be gone before him then,

THE REMINISCENCES OF LADY DOROTHY NEVILL.

Edited by her Son, RALPH NEVILL.

Demy 8vo. With Portrait. 15s. net.

There are very few persons living whose knowledge of English Society is, literally, so extensive and peculiar as Lady Dorothy Nevill's, and fewer still whose recollections of a period extending from the day of the postchaise to that of the motor-car are as graphic and entertaining as hers. In the course of her life she has met almost every distinguished representative of literature, politics and art, and about many of them she has anecdotes to tell which have never before been made public. She has much to say of her intimate friends of an earlier day—Disraeli, the second Duke of Wellington, Bernal Osborne, Lord Ellenborough, and a dozen others—while a multitude of more modern personages pass in procession across her light-hearted pages.

There are curious domestic details of her early life, such as the number of breakfasts to which she went in her first London season, which can hardly have been more recently than 1844, or the composition and equipment of the cavalcade of retainers without which her father, the third Earl of Orford, 'in his nankeen shorts and beautifully embroidered waistcoat,' thought it unseemly to travel abroad. Lady Dorothy has taken, and still takes, an interest in every conceivable subject, from old English furniture to the Primrose League, which may be said to have originated at her table.

A reproduction of a recent crayon portrait by M. Cayron is given as frontispiece.

WESTERN TIBET AND THE BRITISH BORDERLAND.

By CHARLES A. SHERRING, M.A., F.R.G.S., INDIAN CIVIL SERVICE; DEPUTY COMMISSIONER OF ALMORA.

Royal 8vo. With Illustrations, Maps and Sketches. 21s. net.

During the last few years Tibet, wrapped through the centuries in mystery, has been effectively 'opened up' to the gaze of the Western world, and already the reader has at his disposal an enormous mass of information on the country and its inhabitants. But there is in Western Tibet a region which is still comparatively little known, which is especially sacred to the Hindu and Buddhist, and in which curious myths and still more curious manners abound; and it is of this portion of the British Borderland, its government, and the religion and customs of its peoples, that Mr. Sherring writes.

The book contains a thrilling account by Dr. T. G. Longstaff, M.B., F.R.G.S., of an attempt to climb Gurla Mandhata, the highest mountain in Western Tibet, with two Swiss guides, which is especially noteworthy as being the first occasion on which a Tibetan mountain has been attacked according to approved modern methods. A special feature of the numerous illustrations with which the book is adorned are the magnificent panoramic views.

PATROLLERS OF PALESTINE.

By the REV. HASKETT SMITH, M.A., F.R.G.S.

EDITOR OF 'MURRAY'S HANDBOOK TO SYRIA AND PALESTINE,' 1902;
AUTHOR OF 'FOR GOD AND HUMANITY: A ROMANCE OF MOUNT CARMEL,' 'THE DIVINE EPIPHANY,' 'CALVARY AND THE TOMB OF CHRIST,' ETC.

Large crown 8vo. With Illustrations. 10s. 6d.

The late Mr. Haskett Smith was a well-known authority on the Holy Land, and in this book he personally conducts a typical party of English tourists to some of the more important sites hallowed by tradition. On the way, much interesting information is imparted in the course of conversation between the Sheikh (as the author calls himself), and his 'tribe,' and many apparent difficulties in the Bible are swept away by his enlightened explanations.

ABYSSINIA OF TO-DAY.

An Account of the First Mission sent by the American Government to the King of Kings.

By ROBERT P. SKINNER,

COMMISSIONER TO ABYSSINIA, 1903-1904; AMERICAN CONSUL-GENERAL; FELLOW OF THE AMERICAN GEOGRAPHICAL SOCIETY; SOCI DOU FELIBRIGE.

Demy 8vo. With numerous Illustrations and Map. 12s. 6d. net.

The object of this American Mission to the Emperor Menelik was to negotiate a commercial treaty. The Mission was extremely well received, and the expedition appears to have been a complete success. The picture drawn by Mr. Skinner of the Abyssinians and their ruler is an exceedingly agreeable one; and his notes on this land of grave faces, elaborate courtesy, classic tone, and Biblical civilization, its history, politics, language, literature, religion, and trade, are full of interest; there are also some valuable hints on the organization and equipment of a caravan.

HOUSEBOAT DAYS IN CHINA.

By J. O. P. BLAND.

Demy 8vo. With numerous Illustrations.

The author is a very prominent member of the British community at Shanghai, and a well-known authority on China. His account of houseboat holidays is extremely entertaining, and is illustrated with specially-drawn sketches.

NEW AND CHEAPER EDITION.

MY MEMOIRS.

By HENRI STEPHAN DE BLOWITZ.

Crown 8vo. With Portrait. 6s.

The remarkable interest aroused by the publication of these unique memoirs of the late Paris Correspondent of The Times has suggested that an edition more easily within the reach of the general public will be welcomed.

THE PRINCES OF ACHAIA AND THE CHRONICLES OF MOREA.

A Study of Greece in the Middle Ages.

By Sir RENNELL RODD, G.C.V.O., K.C.M.G., C.B.,

H.M. Envoy Extraordinary and Minister Plenipotentiary to Sweden and Norway; Author of 'Customs and Lore of Modern Greece,' 'Feda, and other Poems,' 'The Unknown Madonna,' 'Ballads of the Fleet,' etc.

Demy 8vo. With Illustrations and Map. 14s. net.

The subject with which Sir Rennell Rodd deals in this important work is one which has never been treated of in English, though a few scanty notices of the period may be found. Nevertheless, it is curiously interesting and fascinating, as filling up a great blank in the historical experience of most people.

INDIVIDUAL OWNERSHIP AND THE GROWTH OF MODERN CIVILIZATION.

BEING A TRANSLATION OF

HENRI DE TOURVILLE'S

'Histoire de la Formation Particulariste'

By MAISIE G. LOCH.

Demy 8vo.

The articles which are here presented in the form of a volume were contributed by the author to the French periodical La Science Sociale over a period of six years ending in February, 1903. His death occurred within a few days of his completing the work. M. de Tourville, after showing that the transformation of the communal into the particularist family took place in Scandinavia, and was largely due to the peculiar geographical character of the Western slope, traces the development of modern Europe from the action of the particularist type of society upon the fabric of Roman civilization.

THE AFTERMATH OF WAR.

An Account of the Repatriation of Boers and Natives in the Orange River Colony.

By G. B. BEAK.

Demy 8vo. With Illustrations and Map. 12s. 6d. net.

The author, after serving nearly two and a half years in the South African War, was appointed Assistant Secretary of the Orange River Colony Repatriation Department, and subsequently Assistant Director of Relief under the Government. His information is thus not only first-hand but unique.

Although both were originally based on Article X. of the Terms of Vereeniging, the scheme of repatriation carried out in the Orange River Colony differed entirely in detail from that adopted in the Transvaal. Mr. Beak begins by pointing out the causes which led to the policy of clearance and concentration and describing the effect of that policy. He next deals with the arrangements made for the return of the prisoners of war and the supply of everything necessary to enable the people to resume their normal avocations. He shows how the unprecedented drought in which the difficulties of the work culminated led to the necessity of continuing the relief organization after the repatriation proper had been carried out, and discusses the questions of claims, compensation, and loans.

The book is illustrated with some extremely interesting photographs.

THE QUEEN'S POOR.

Life as they find it in Town and Country.

By M. LOANE.

Crown 8vo. 3s. 6d.

OPINIONS ON THE FORMER EDITION.

'It is a book which is not only a mine of humorous stories, quaint sayings, and all that web of anecdote and quick repartee which sweetens a life at the best limited and austere. It is also a study in which common-sense mingles with sympathy in a record of intimate relationship with the problems of poverty.'—Daily News.

Sir ARTHUR CLAY, Bart., says of this book: 'I have had a good deal of experience of "relief" work, and I have never yet come across a book upon the subject of the "poor" which shows such true insight and such a grasp of reality in describing the life, habits, and mental attitude of our poorer fellow-citizens. . . . The whole book is not only admirable from a common-sense point of view, but it is extremely pleasant and interesting to read, and has the great charm of humour.'

LETTERS OF GEORGE BIRKBECK HILL,

D.C.L., LL.D., Hon. Fellow of Pembroke College, Oxford.

Arranged by his Daughter, LUCY CRUMP.

Demy 8vo. With Portraits. 12s. 6d. net.

Dr. Birkbeck Hill's 'Letters' form, with a few connecting links written by his daughter, an autobiography whose charm lies in its intimate portrayal of a character which was, in its curious intensity, at once learned, tender, and humorous. He wrote as he talked, and his talk was famous for its fund of anecdote, of humour, of deep poetic feeling, of vigorous literary criticism, and no less vigorous political sentiment. As an Oxford undergraduate, he was one of the founders, together with Mr. Swinburne, Prof. A. V. Dicey, and Mr. James Bryce, of the Old Mortality Club. He was intimately connected also with the Pre-Raphaelites. At college, at home, on the Continent, or in America, everywhere he writes with the pen of one who observes everything, and who could fit all he saw that was new into his vast knowledge of the past. His edition of 'Boswell's Johnson,' of 'Johnson's Letters,' and 'The Lives of the Poets' have passed into classical works. But that his writings were not exclusively Johnsonian is abundantly shown by such books as the Letters of Hume, Swift, General Gordon, and Rossetti, as well as by his 'Life of Sir Rowland Hill,' his 'History of Harvard University,' and various collections of essays.

LETTERS TO A GODCHILD

ON THE CATECHISM AND CONFIRMATION.

By ALICE GARDNER,

ASSOCIATE AND LECTURER OF NEWNHAM COLLEGE, CAMBRIDGE; AUTHOR OF 'FRIENDS OF THE OLDEN TIME,' 'THEODORE OF STUDIUM,' ETC.

Foolscap 8vo. 2s. 6d. net.

This series of actual Letters written to an actual Godchild on the subject of Confirmation is intended for parents and teachers who either feel that some of the instruction to be derived from the Catechism is obscured by archaism of style and thought, or who desire something in the way of a supplement to the Catechism. It is not intended to take the place of works of formal religious instruction.

TRANSLATIONS INTO LATIN AND GREEK VERSE.

By H. A. J. MUNRO,

SOMETIME FELLOW OF TRINITY COLLEGE, AND PROFESSOR OF LATIN IN THE UNIVERSITY OF CAMBRIDGE.

With a Prefatory Note by J. D. DUFF,

FELLOW OF TRINITY COLLEGE, CAMBRIDGE.

Medium 8vo. With a Portrait. 6s. net.

These translations were originally printed for private circulation in the autumn of 1884, a few months before the author's death. They were never published, and for years past the price asked for the book second-hand has been high. It has therefore been decided, with the consent of Munro's representatives, to reprint the work, so that those who are interested in Latin Verse and in Munro may acquire a copy at a reasonable price. A few slight changes have been introduced from Munro's own copy of the book. Some of the translations were printed separately before 1884, but these were much changed before their second appearance. Two, which were found among Munro's papers, have been added; one of them, from Scott, has not, it is believed, been printed before.

Munro's verses are not a mere cento of tags from the classics, dovetailed together with more or less ingenuity. The severity of his method leads at times to a certain baldness; but at other times, when he is inspired by his English, and writing in a favourite metre, the result is something not easily distinguishable from an original work of art.

NEW EDITION, ENTIRELY REWRITTEN.

PSYCHOLOGY FOR TEACHERS.

By C. LLOYD MORGAN, LL.D., F.R.S.,

PRINCIPAL OF UNIVERSITY COLLEGE, BRISTOL; AUTHOR OF 'THE SPRINGS OF CONDUCT,' 'HABIT AND INSTINCT,' ETC.

Crown 8vo. 4s. 6d.

For this edition, Professor Lloyd Morgan has entirely rewritten, and very considerably enlarged, his well-known work on this important subject. He has, in fact, practically made a new book of it.

MISREPRESENTATIVE WOMEN, AND OTHER VERSES.

By HARRY GRAHAM,

AUTHOR OF 'RUTHLESS RHYMES FOR HEARTLESS HOMES,' 'BALLADS OF THE BOER WAR 'MISREPRESENTATIVE MEN,' 'FISCAL BALLADS,' 'VERSE AND WORSE,' ETC.

Foolscap 4to. With Illustrations by DAN SAYRE GROESBECK. 5s.

Admirers of Captain Graham's ingenious and sarcastic verse will welcome this fresh instalment, which contains, among the 'other verses,' a number of 'Poetic Paraphrases' and 'Open Letters' to popular authors.

THE LAND OF PLAY.

By MRS. GRAHAM WALLAS.

With Illustrations by GILBERT JAMES. 3s. 6d.

The four stories which make up this delightful children's book are entitled 'Luck-child,' 'The Princess and the Ordinary Little Girl,' 'Professor Green,' and 'A Position of Trust.'

A SONG-GARDEN FOR CHILDREN.

A Collection of Children's Songs.

Adapted from the French and German by
HARRY GRAHAM AND ROSA NEWMARCH.

The Music Edited and Arranged by NORMAN O'NEILL.

Imperial 8vo. 2s. 6d. net.

This is a charming collection of forty-three French and German songs for children translated and adapted by Capt. Graham and Mrs. Newmarch. It includes nine songs arranged by J. Brahms for the children of Robert and Clara Schumann.

NEW FICTION.

POLITICAL CARICATURES, 1906.

By Sir F. CARRUTHERS GOULD.

Super royal 4to. 6s. net.

The change of Government, with the consequent variety of political topics, very greatly enhances the attraction of this new volume of cartoons by 'Sir F. C. G.,' whose well-earned honour has been the subject of congratulation on all sides. If the increased acerbity of political relations is found to be slightly reflected in these later cartoons, the many fresh and interesting studies are no less happily handled than those produced under the Conservative régime.

NEW AND CHEAPER EDITIONS.

EPOCHS OF ENGLISH LITERATURE.

By J. C. STOBART,
ASSISTANT MASTER AT MERCHANT TAYLORS' SCHOOL.

Crown 8vo. With Notes and Glossary. 1s. 6d. each.

This is a series of nine volumes, the objects of which may be said to be threefold: First, to teach the history of our literature in a rational and orderly manner; second, to illuminate the history of England by exhibiting the thoughts of its men of letters in their own words; and third, to display, as if in a gallery, some specimens of the inheritance into which every reader of English has entered. The epochs treated are those connected with the names, respectively, of Chaucer, Spenser, Shakespeare, Milton, Dryden, Pope, Johnson, Wordsworth, and Tennyson.

A HUNTING CATECHISM.

This, the third of Colonel Meysey-Thompson's invaluable handbooks, will appeal to hunting men as strongly as the previous volumes did to lovers of rod and gun. The information given is absolutely practical, and is conveyed, for the most part, in the form of Question and Answer. The arrangement is especially calculated to facilitate easy reference.

AT THE WORKS.

A Study of a North Country Town.

By LADY BELL,

AUTHOR OF 'THE DEAN OF ST. PATRICK'S,' 'THE ARBITER,' ETC., ETC.

Crown 8*vo*. 6s.

In this little book Lady Bell has entered upon a new branch of literature. It is not a novel, but a description of the industrial and social condition of the ironworkers of the North Country.

THREE LITTLE COOKS.

By LUCY CRUMP.

With Illustrations by GERTRUDE M. BRADLEY.

Crown 8*vo*. 2s. 6d.

'Where, we again ask, can we find a successor to Miss Edgeworth? Till some few months ago we should have answered this enquiry mournfully with the one word "Nowhere." But the reading of Mrs Lucy Crump's "Three Little Cooks" must convince the most confirmed sceptic that the spirit of Maria Edgeworth, though in a slightly modernized and even improved form, still lives amongst us. The aim of this charming little book would assuredly meet with Maria's warmest approval. Its aim is to provide lessons in cookery for the young.'—Spectator.

'Mr. McTaggart's book is full of surprises, some of them very pleasant. It is also able, interesting, stimulating; all the more so because it is the product of two philosophical methods, and belongs to more than one century—connecting the Deism of the one with the Idealism of the other. . . . The crowning merits of Mr. McTaggart's style are its clean-cut explicitness, and the happy directness and not infrequent humour of its illustrations.'—Tribune.

SIR JOSHUA FITCH.

An Account of his Life and Work.

A GUIDE TO DISEASES OF THE NOSE AND THROAT AND THEIR TREATMENT.

By CHARLES ARTHUR PARKER, F.R.C.S. EDIN.

Demy 8vo. With 254 Illustrations. 18s. net.

EXTRACT FROM THE PREFACE.

'To acquire the necessary dexterity to examine a patient systematically so as to overlook nothing, to recognise and put in its proper place the particular pathological condition found, and finally, but chiefly, to treat both the patient and the local abnormality successfully, seem to me the three most important objects of a course of study at a special hospital. This book, which is founded on lectures given at the Throat Hospital with these objects in view, is now published in the hope of helping those who are either attending or have attended a short course of study at special departments or special Hospitals for Diseases of the Throat and Nose. . . .'

THE DIAGNOSIS OF NERVOUS DISEASES.

By PURVES STEWART, M.A., M.D., F.R.C.P.,

PHYSICIAN TO OUT-PATIENTS AT THE WESTMINSTER HOSPITAL, AND JOINT LECTURER ON MEDICINE IN THE MEDICAL SCHOOL; PHYSICIAN TO THE ROYAL NATIONAL ORTHOPÆDIC HOSPITAL; ASSISTANT PHYSICIAN TO THE ITALIAN HOSPITAL.

Demy 8vo. With Illustrations and Coloured Plates. 15s. net.

This book, which is intended for the use of senior students and practitioners, to supplement the ordinary text-books, discusses the most modern methods of diagnosis of Diseases of the Nervous System. The substance of the work, which is illustrated by original diagrams and clinical photographs, nearly 200 in number, was originally delivered in lecture form to students at the Westminster Hospital and to certain post-graduate audiences in London and elsewhere. The subject of Nervous Diseases is approached from the point of view of the practical physician, and the diagnostic facts are illustrated, as far as possible, by clinical cases.

THE CHEMICAL INVESTIGATION OF GASTRIC AND INTESTINAL DISEASES BY THE AID OF TEST MEALS.

By VAUGHAN HARLEY, M.D. Edin., M.R.C.P., F.C.S., Professor of Pathological Chemistry, University College, London;
And FRANCIS GOODBODY, M.D. Dub., M.R.C.P., Assistant Professor of Pathological Chemistry, University College, London.

Demy 8vo. 8s. 6d. net.

This book opens with a description of the method of obtaining gastric contents, and the estimation of the capacity of the stomach. The various Test Meals employed in diagnosis are next described. The macroscopical examination of the gastric contents and conclusions to be drawn on inspection are discussed, and a short description of the microscopical appearances follows. The chemical analysis of the gastric contents is then given. The Organic Diseases of the Stomach are all separately described, with specimen cases of analysis to illustrate them. The Functional Diseases of the Stomach, which are more frequently met with in ordinary practice than the Organic Diseases, are also very fully given. The chemical methods employed in the investigation of Intestinal Diseases are then described with great fulness, four types of Test Meals being given. Among the very numerous other subjects discussed and illustrated are: Diarrhœa and Constipation, the chemical analysis relating to each being given, Intestinal Dyspepsia and Catarrh, Colitis, Intestinal Atrophy, Intestinal Ulceration, Intestinal Carcinoma, Sprue, or Psilosis, and Calculi.

MIDWIFERY FOR NURSES.

By HENRY RUSSELL ANDREWS, M.D., B.Sc. Lond., M.R.C.P. Lond., Assistant Obstetric Physician and Lecturer to Pupil Midwives at the London Hospital; Examiner to the Central Midwives Board.

Crown 8vo. With Illustrations. 4s. 6d. net.

This book is intended to supply the pupil midwife with all that is necessary to meet the requirements of the Central Midwives Board, and to be used as a work of reference for the certificated midwife. It is meant not to be merely an examination book, but to be a practical handbook for midwives.

ALTERNATING CURRENTS.

A Text-book for Students of Engineering.

By C. G. LAMB, M.A., B.Sc.,
CLARE COLLEGE, CAMBRIDGE.
ASSOCIATE MEMBER OF THE INSTITUTION OF ELECTRICAL ENGINEERS; ASSOCIATE OF THE CITY AND GUILDS OF LONDON INSTITUTE.

Demy 8vo. With Illustrations. 10s. 6d. net.

The scope of this book is intended to be such as to cover approximately the range of reading in alternating current machinery and apparatus considered by the author as desirable for a student of general engineering in his last year—as, for example, a candidate for the Mechanical Sciences Tripos at Cambridge. In general it deals with 'principles' as distinct from 'processes'; the details involved in an adequate consideration of the latter are dealt with more appropriately in drawing office work. The subjects considered include the usual questions concerned with alternate current flow, the theory of the operation and of the testing of alternators, transformers, induction and series motors, by direct methods and that of the open circuit and short circuit tests; the operation of alternators in parallel, of synchronous motors, and the usual matters included in such a course of reading. The treatment is directed chiefly to the acquirement by the student of clear general ideas as to methods of operation and the practical limitations of the problems discussed. It is hoped that the book may take its place as a suitable introduction to the standard works on the subject.

A MANUAL OF HYDRAULICS.

By R. BUSQUET,
PROFESSOR À L'ÉCOLE INDUSTRIELLE DE LYON.

Translated by A. H. PEAKE, M.A., DEMONSTRATOR IN MECHANISM AND APPLIED MECHANICS IN THE UNIVERSITY OF CAMBRIDGE.

Crown 8vo. With Illustrations. 7s. 6d. net.

This work is a practical text-book of Applied Hydraulics, in which complete technical theories and all useful calculations for the erection of hydraulic plant are presented. It is not a purely descriptive work designed merely for popular use, nor is it an abstruse treatise suitable only for engineers versed in higher mathematics. The book is well illustrated, and is full of Arithmetical Examples fully worked out. In these examples, no knowledge is assumed beyond that of simple arithmetic and the elements of geometry.
